Reductions Average Ten Per Cent from Measure
as It Passed the Lower Body

FIRST TIME IN HISTORY OF U. S.

Senate Majority Has Shown Itself More Radical than Did the House

- Chronology of the Wilson-Underwood Tariff Bill
- April 7—Introduced in the house and referred to ways and means committee.
- April 7 to 21—In house democratic caucus.
- April 21—Reintroduced in the house.
- May 8—Passed by the house.
- May 16—Referred to finance committee in the senate.
- June 20—Reported by finance committee to democratic caucus.
- June 21 to June 27—Debated in senate democratic caucus.
- July 11—Approved by senate finance committee and reported to the senate.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Reductions averaging nearly ten per cent from the duties provided in the house bill are the distinctive features of the senate's version of the Wilson-Underwood tariff measure, approved by the senate finance committee today and reported by Chairman Simmons to the senate. While raw wool is to become free of duty December 1 this year and sugar is to go on the free list May 1, 1916, as provided in the original Underwood bill, the senate measure has switched most of the other agricultural products from the dutiable to the free list and has drastically reduced the rates on metals.

By a strict party vote, the senate finance committee this afternoon formally approved the Wilson-Underwood bill and recommended a favorable report to the senate. Chairman Simmons favorably reported the bill at 2:15, immediately after the senate convened. "For the first time in American history," said Senator Thomas of Colorado, one of the most active members of the finance committee to a United Press correspondent today, "the senate majority has shown itself more radical or more progressive than the majority of the house. We believe we have given to the American people in this bill sincere and highly acceptable fulfillment of the tariff pledge in our national platform. We have written a tariff for the average American citizen—the plain man who makes up the nation. It is a bill that can be understood by anyone because its whole trend is towards more equal opportunity. The party pledged this sort of legislation. The country called upon us."

Weather

Temperature ranges yesterday:
High, 78.
Low, 58.
Precipitation, 0.
Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Showers tonight or Saturday with moderate temperature.
Wisconsin: Thunderstorms tonight and probably Saturday; moderate to brisk winds.
Minnesota: Showers tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight west portion; brisk winds.
Iowa: Thunderstorms tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight extreme southwest portion; moderate to brisk winds.

Weather Conditions
The northwestern depression has developed into a storm of considerable strength; it is central this morning north of North Dakota and extends southward over the plains states. Showers and local thunderstorms have occurred throughout the Canadian northwest, in Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, western Iowa and northwestern Missouri. The showers were generally light except in Manitoba, eastern South Dakota and Nebraska where they were moderately heavy. Rain is falling this morning throughout Minnesota and in the lower Missouri valley. Rain has also fallen in the lower Mississippi valley. An area of high pressure is moving in on the north Pacific slope and the temperature has moderated somewhat in the northwest.
Showers are probable in this section this afternoon and tonight or Saturday with moderate temperature.

TUBERCULOSIS VICTIM WITH IMAGINATION IS ENGAGED TO FIVE GIRLS

DENVER, Col., July 11.—C. F. Thompson, 28 years old, jugged imaginary millions before the eyes of five Denver brunettes and won their consent to marriage by promises of castles, steam yachts and a string of automobiles. While the five brides-to-be were waiting for $1,000 trousseaus which he had picked out for them, he pawned a $58 phonograph to get $8 for room rent and was arrested for obtaining goods under false pretenses.
Five Denver brunettes, under the crash of falling castles in Spain, have changed their names under fear of exposure. Five wedding outfits which they had picked out for the day of days have been taken out of the packing cases in Denver department stores and placed back in the sales racks.
The man with an imagination of a Croesus, the manner of a prince, and the pocketbook of a pauper, laughs at the turn of fate at the city jail. He played the game and lost, and he went down smiling. He has tuberculosis and has only a few months to live, but he brightened his life for two weeks at the expense of five hearts.

CLARK DENIES ANY TRUST CONNECTION

Says Statements Made to Ledyard by Lamar and Lauterbach Are Unfounded Lies

MULHALL TELLS OF THREATS

Declares He Has Been Giving Warning to Leave Washington and May Be Given Bodyguard

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark interrupted the senate lobby inquiry today to place on the record an emphatic denial of every statement made by David Lamar and Edward Lauterbach in their stories told to Lewis Cass Ledyard connecting him with Morgan & Company.
"I never met either J. P. Morgan or any member of his firm in my life," said Clark, "and only saw Mr. Morgan once in my life and that was across a banquet hall."
"Never knew Ledyard."
"I never knew there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard in my life," Clark continued. "I was introduced to Edward Lauterbach several years ago and only met him that once and then for a very brief period. Every statement connecting my name with anyone in the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony is an absolute lie."

"I believe that when Mr. Ledyard learned that my name and that of Senator Stone were being bandied about in this manner, he should have communicated with us."
A husky assistant sergeant at arms of the United States senate may be assigned to guard Colonel A. M. Mulhall, confessed lobbyist and strikebreaker, Mulhall, who is to be a witness before the senate lobby committee, has complained to Chairman Overman that he has received a distinct hint that it would be well for him to leave Washington. He makes no charges about the warning other than that he believes it was intended to intimidate him.

Laugh at Complaint

Mulhall has been informed by Senator Overman that if he wishes it he can have a deputy sergeant at arms assigned to him to protect him from interference of any kind. Officials of the National Association of Manufacturers laugh at the Mulhall complaint.
"We would not surrender the opportunity of getting Mulhall on the stand and confronting him with certain of his statements for anything," declared attorneys for the association today.

It is the committee's intention to call Mulhall after hearing a few minor witnesses regarding the wool lobby. Then Mulhall was to read in to the record the 20,000 letters covering his experiences, which the committee has had printed.
It was certain today that the story of Mulhall would set on foot an investigation the ramifications of which will extend into every section of the United States. He has confidently informed members of the committee who have talked with him that of his own positive knowledge he can tell of the inside of many of the great strikes which have paralyzed industry of every character.

Labor Men Called

Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, also officials of the American Federation of Labor, and George Pope, president, and J. P. Bird, general manager, of the N. A. M., are under subpoena to follow Mulhall, and it is expected there will be a rush of many of those implicated by him voluntarily to testify. It is the intention of the committee to take the lid off the entire labor situation in the United States.

MOTHER FOLLOWS DAUGHTER

CHICAGO, July 11.—A double inquest was held today over the bodies of Mrs. Mary Schuit and her seventeen year old daughter, Mabel. The girl's body was found floating on the surface of the lake near the Columbia Yacht club yesterday. Her mother committed suicide by taking carbolic acid an hour after she identified the corpse.

BACKS WILSON IN THE LOBBY PROBE

Senator La Follette Says Country Is Indebted to President for His Action

URGES A DEEPER INVESTIGATION

Says Additional Facts May Be Gathered by Probe of "National Business League"

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—(Special.)—Senator La Follette comes to the support of President Wilson in the latter's lobby probe, in a signed editorial on the cover page of his magazine today.
"The country is indebted to President Wilson for exposing the bomb that blew the lid off the congressional lobby," he writes. "He hurled his short-fused missile directly at the insidious interference with tariff legislation but it resulted in uncovering the whole works. He touched it off at a time and in a way to force a congressional investigation."
Senator La Follette then makes an attack on the Wholesale Grocers' association, the Beet Sugar Growers' association, and the National Manufacturers' association for their part in the case.

"And the half has not yet been told," continues the senator. "Let this committee of investigation inquire into the collection and expenditure of money by the 'National Business League of America,' organized to create public opinion for the Aldrich currency scheme and for 'other purposes'—and it is just possible that it may add another interesting chapter to its illuminating record."
The result of the disclosures, concludes Senator La Follette, will be legislation imposing the severest penalties for attempts to secretly influence congressional action, and requiring the filing of expense accounts, under oath, of all money used or contributed for the election or defeat of any federal official.

BOY SHOTS PRIEST

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Rev. Felix Lazewski, a Polish priest, is in a critical condition in the county hospital today and Stanley Bernat, 18, is under arrest, charged with the shooting as the result of a quarrel in the Bernat home last night. The priest, according to neighbors, reprimanded the boy for speaking angrily upon Rev. Lazewski and in the scuffle is alleged to have shot him.

HEAR ELLROY COMPLAINT

ELROY, Wis., July 11.—(Special.)—The hearing on Assemblyman A. E. Frederick's complaint against the Northwestern road, for a new depot at Elroy, was held before State Railroad Commissioner Harlowe here Wednesday. Assemblyman Frederick, whose home is in Kendall, appeared for himself in the prosecution of the complaint. Superintendent Nash and Attorney Vilas appeared for the company.

BALDWIN HEIRESS DIVORCED

OAKLAND, Cal., July 11.—Anita Baldwin McClaughrey, heiress to "Lucky" Baldwin's $10,000,000 fortune, is separated from her husband today. She secured a divorce from her husband, Hull McClaughrey yesterday, alleging cruelty. McClaughrey offered no defense, as the result of a private agreement for which McClaughrey received $300,000 cash.

MYRTLE ELLERS IS SEEN IN VISION?

Spiritualist Medium Says
She Located Body of the Girl Drowned in the River

FATHER FOLLOWS SLENDER CLUE

Declares Body Is Held by Roots of Tree or Stump at Head of Slough

Grasping at every possible chance that may aid him in the search for the body of his daughter Myrtle, who was drowned in the Mississippi river together with two companions the evening of July 4, and whose body has not yet been recovered, William Ellers this morning started on a launch trip down the river in an attempt to run down a slender clue furnished yesterday by Mrs. H. S. Payne, 801 South Eighth street, a spiritualist medium.
Mrs. Payne, who is said to have shown remarkable clairvoyant powers in many instances, was talking about the accident with her husband and a visitor last evening and it was suggested that she try to find, if possible, the location of the girl's body. She consented and in a few moments became rigid in a trance. As her lips began to move the listeners heard her say that she had found the body—that it was caught by one arm in the roots of an overturned tree or stump at a point where a small branch of the river runs off from the main channel through bottom lands below the city.

On Wisconsin Side

She vividly described the spot and said that it is a short distance below the city on the east or Wisconsin side of the river. She said that it was at the opening of a small slough which drew its water from the main channel of the river and that the land about is bottom land and covered with long grass. She said that the body is being held by the left arm beneath the surface by the roots of a big stump or overturned tree. She said that the slough is one of several that branch off the main river near this point and that she could see the water of the other sloughs both to the right and left of her as she looked toward the Wisconsin shore. She was unable to tell how far below the city she went in her vision but she is of the impression that it is not far above Brownsville.

In an interview today Mrs. Payne said that she could not remember much of what occurred while she was in the trance and that the listeners could tell more of the revelation than she. "It is just like a dream to me," she said. "It is all muddled up when I wake up. But I can remember that I was very cold."

Medium's Arm Cold

Mrs. Payne declared that she has possessed clairvoyant powers for thirty-six years and recited several remarkable instances where the power she does not understand enabled her to read beyond the sight of others.

According to one who was visiting at the Payne home when the medium went into the trance, she kept feeling of her left arm all the time she was talking and when she revived she felt her left arm and found it "cold as ice." The visitor, evidently impressed with what he had seen and heard, did not pretend to understand what caused the phenomenon. Mrs. Payne said that she saw it as the current was tugging at it with considerable force and it was not securely fastened.

Mrs. Payne's husband met Mr. Ellers a short time after and told him of what had occurred, and wishing to overlook no possible chance of finding the body, Mr. Ellers today renewed his search. Whether or not he has been able to find the spot described by Mrs. Payne has not yet been learned.

According to rivermen there is a place on the river which talked by Mrs. Payne about three miles below La Crosse. The slough through which rivermen go to reach Muskrat lake is similar to that described in the vision and a large overturned tree with its roots extending down into the current marks the head of the slough. The grassy bottoms and adjoining sloughs are as the medium described, and the rivermen assert that the body could easily drift with the current beneath the tree.

LOOK FOR PINK AURA

CHICAGO, July 11.—Picking the "right" girl is the easiest matter in the world if you hunt around until you find one who radiates a pink aura. It's a ten to one bet that the girl will fall on your neck and say yes for the pink rays show she is plumb full of affection.

Dr. Edwin B. Beckwith gave this advice gratis to a crowd of the lovers who gathered to hear his lecture. A yellowish-green aura surrounds the girl you must avoid, volunteered the doctor. She has a spiteful temper.

Spotting the aura is a difficult thing, admitted Dr. Beckwith. One has to be real sensitive.

HOBBLES AND WOMEN'S CLUBS WERE HOBBIES OF OVER 3,000 YEARS AGO

DENVER, Col., July 11.—The modernist movement started about 3,000 years ago. Sappho was the president of the first woman's club, and she was a suffragette, too. She organized a club about 900 B. C. on the little island of Lesbos. It was not exactly a votes for women club, but her object was to give women a fuller, freer life, to get them to take part in things political and intellectual.
Such were the declarations of Dr. Mitchell Carroll in his lecture on Greek art here today.
And what do you think of this? Precursors to Venus de Milo wore hobble skirts. Dr. Carroll had a series of slides of women's figures thrown upon the screen. This series showed the change of fashions among the women of ancient Greece.
He said: "The figures shown, probably representing court beauties of the day have a peculiar archaic smile, and from the appearance of the hair, curling irons were evidently used."
In the next group the lines are more graceful, the faces more expressive, the skirts are straight and simple, some of them drawn in tightly about the ankles. So, you see, the hobble skirt is no new thing."

WOMAN PROBATION OFFICER PROPOSED

Mayor Sorensen to Offer Ordinance Tonight for Benefit of Delinquent Girls

TO PATROL STREETS AND HALLS

Will Inspect Public Dances,
Parks and Other Places Where Girls Go and
'Congregate'

A woman probation officer, whose duty it shall be to act particularly in matters pertaining to delinquent girls and to patrol dance halls, parks, shows, amusement places, streets, factories where girls are employed and other places where young girls congregate, will be employed by the city within the next month if an ordinance which will be proposed by Mayor Ori Sorensen at the meeting of the common council tonight receives favorable action.
Mayor Sorensen believes that the present method of handling the delinquent girl problem in this city is inadequate and not in accordance with modern ideas. By means of the woman probation officer he believes the city will be able to keep close watch on girls and prevent their being led astray. Mayor Sorensen declared today that the women police of Chicago had done such good work that the department of that city are planning to increase their force of women to more than double its present strength.
"If women police do good work in Chicago," he said, "I have no doubt that one will do good work here and it is certain that there is a large field for her to work in."

The woman probation officer ordinance which will be proposed by Mayor Sorensen tonight is given as follows:
Section 1. The police court shall appoint a woman to be known as probation officer pursuant to section 4731.1 of the statutes of Wisconsin as amended.

Section 2. Such probation officer shall devote all necessary time to the interests of the persons placed under probation, and upon the order of the police court, investigate the circumstances of any case that may come before said court for final action.

Section 3. So far as the same may not conflict with the provisions of law, such probation officer shall act particularly in matters pertaining to delinquent girls and to the preservation of order and the enforcement of the law and ordinances at dance halls, parks, shows, amusement places, streets and wherever young girls go and congregate.

Section 4. There shall be provided in the city hall an office for the use of such probation officer, separate and apart from the general police office.

Section 5. The compensation of such probation officer shall be, prescribed at the sum of $900 a year, payable monthly, in the manner that police officers are paid.

Section 6. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

HOLD POLICE FOR HEARING

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 11.—Charged with enticing minor children, Policemen Leo J. Kennedy and W. J. Lavery, recently suspended, were today held for court hearing under $3,000 bond after the police trial board made a short investigation of the case. Ante-mortem statements by Kathleen Burns and Anna Butler who took bichloride of mercury, causing their death after several days of pain were the main evidence against the patrolmen. The girls made a suicide pact.

SEIDEL TO RUN AGAIN

MILWAUKEE, July 11.—That former Mayor Emil Seidel has been picked to lead the socialist legions against the non-partisan forces at the coming municipal election in the spring was the information gleaned from an authoritative source here today. Party leaders here, according to the report, have picked Seidel as a candidate to succeed Mayor Bading.

ARCHBISHOP CLAIMS AUTHORITY

Answer Declares the Order Prohibiting Paper Was Under His Spiritual Jurisdiction

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 11.—Declaring that he had never submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the Catholic church which has banned his publication, Michael Kruzka, through his attorneys, filed an affidavit to this effect in Judge Halsey's court yesterday at the close of the defendants' argument in the $100,000 suit brought by the Kuryer Polski Publishing company against Archbishop S. B. Messmer, Bishop James Schwabach of La Crosse and other Catholic church heads in Wisconsin. The Kuryer Polski is seeking to have the defendant clerics examined under the discovery statute. The conflict between ecclesiastical and civil law is directly raised in the case.
Demand $100,000
The Polish publishing company demands $100,000 for injury said to have been done the paper because a circular was read in the Catholic churches of the state warning Catholics from reading the paper. The order was issued, it is charged, because the attitude of the paper was not favorable to those in control of the church.

In his answer referring to the publication of the letter the affidavit of Archbishop Messmer sets forth in part that he was in "duty bound" to safeguard his subjects within his jurisdiction and that the authority was vested in him to forbid the reading or supporting of publications as deemed necessary to the welfare of people in the church. The affidavit also states that for refusal to comply with orders canonical punishments might be imposed. The archbishop denied any malice.
Within Spiritual Rights
The question of the case, said Mr. Martin, is whether the bishops were acting within their spiritual jurisdiction. "There is no claim by the plaintiff that the paper did not offend in the complaint. The bishops acted within their official duty, and are bound by laws as strict as those compelled by your honor," he told Judge Halsey. "Was it not their right to pronounce that this paper was not right subject matter for them to read?"

The court will be compelled to make a ruling in this case which will decide whether the order of the Catholic bishops constitutes a boycott and determine how far ecclesiastical authority extends, was the statement of Henry F. Cochems, one of the attorneys for the company.

"We contend the church has no power to extend its authority so far as it did in this case," he said.
Will Force Ruling
"The question of whether the order of the Catholic bishops not to read the Kuryer Polski constitutes a boycott and whether the Kuryer is therefore entitled to damages will force a court ruling which will establish the limit to which ecclesiastical authority extends," he said. "We contend that the church has no authority to extend its power as far as it did in this case."

- BUCHAREST, July 11.—
- Without meeting the slightest
- opposition the Roumanian ar-
- my today crossed the Danube
- and occupied the fortified Bul-
- garian city of Silistria. The ci- ty has a population of approxi- mately 12,000.
- Silistria has a large Moham-
- medan population and many
- mosques, having been an im-
- portant city under the Turks.
- It figured prominently as the
- chief fortress of the Turks on
- the northeastern frontier dur-
- ing the Russo-Turkish wars. It
- came into the hands of the Bul-
- garians at the close of the last
- war between the Turks and
- Russians.

BUCHAREST, July 11.—The invasion of Bulgaria by the main army of Roumania began at 11:30 a. m. today. The first detachment of the army had crossed the Danube and landed on the Bulgarian shore at that hour. The Roumanian minister left Sofia early today, the Italian minister taking over his archives.

Roumania Ready

All Roumania was today prepared for war with Bulgaria. King Charles summoned parliament to convene in special session next Wednesday to deal with questions arising out of the plan to occupy Bulgarian territory. With the withdrawal of her minister from Sofia and the mobilization of the army, Roumania has shown that she is determined to take possession of the territory demanded as a reward for her neutrality during the Turkish-Balkan war.

The present purpose is to seize this territory immediately. It extends from Turtukal, approximately 100 miles from the sea, to Balchik on the Black sea. The area is about 2,500 square miles. The first point of attack will be the fortified city of Silistria.

Allies to Stay Hands

LONDON, July 11.—Diplomats here today awaited with interest the replies expected from Serbia and Greece as a result of Bulgaria's action in placing her affairs in the hands of Russia. There is little doubt that these countries would agree to an immediate armistice, providing Bulgaria would agree to the main provisions of the peace terms, which it is known will be demanded. The invasion by Roumania would also possibly be stopped, providing Bulgaria agrees to turn over to King Charles the territory he demands as a reward for neutrality during the struggle of the Balkan allies with Turkey.

Serbia and Greece also demand territorial concessions, and it is believed here that should Bulgaria refuse at the present time to accede to the demands of Greece and Serbia when two armies expected to join forces, push on to Sofia, and impose even more exacting terms on Czar Ferdinand.

Latest reports from the armies tell of additional reverses for the Bulgarians. A report that General Ivanoff had been compelled to surrender to the Greeks with a force of 50,000 is not taken seriously here.

Will Not Resist

LONDON, July 11.—A Reuter dispatch here today from Sofia declares that Bulgaria has decided not to resist Roumania in the invasion now under way at the direction of King Charles. This would mean that Bulgaria will permit the Roumanians to take possession of the 2,500 square miles of territory which they demand as a reward for remaining neutral during the Turko-Balkan war.

MAY AVERT STRIKE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Spurred to action by the increasing danger of a great railroad strike in the east, the house judiciary committee hurriedly called a special meeting today to consider Chairman Clayton's bill extending the Erdman arbitration act. That the committee would withdraw the Clayton bill and probably recommend passage of a somewhat similar measure by Senator Newlands, which has already passed the senate was predicted by several members of the house committee. The Clayton bill is not satisfactory either to the railroads or their employees.

IMPORT CAMELS TO TRAVEL IN DESERT

Southwest Soon to Witness Caravans Similar to Those of the Sahara

EL PASO, Texas, July 11.—Camel caravans such as those seen in the great Sahara desert will soon become familiar sights in the deserts of New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California, if the plans of an association of southwestern business men are successful. J. H. Trimble, a prominent Texas stockman, is one of the leading spirits in the plan to transport 200 camels from the orient to the southwestern section of America for use in the arid wastes.

The association purposes to put the camels on a ranch on the Rio Grande about 150 miles south of Cape Verde, where a breeding station is to be established. The desert areas of New Mexico, Arizona and California, although offering great possibilities to the seeker after metals are but little traversed either by railroads or other means of transportation. With squads of camels it is believed long journeys into the interiors of these wastes can be made.

This will not be the first time that camels have been brought here for this purpose, Jefferson Davis, when secretary of war in Pierce's cabinet tried it out. Under Davis' direction 49 of the animals and their Armenian drivers were imported and a caravansary built near Cape Verde. Some of these buildings still remain. But just about the time the beasts and their drivers became acclimated and tests were to start, the civil war broke out and Davis was elected president of the confederacy. Because of the feeling against Davis, and partly because of the unsettled condition of the government for so many years, the camel scheme was dropped.

"Now, lemme see," said the rural justice, figuring on the back of an old envelope. "Your bill will be just—$47."

"Forty-seven dollars?" echoed Wigglethorpe. "Why, judge, the fine for overspeeding is only $15."

"Ya-as, I know," said the justice. "The thirty-two dollars is fer contempt o' court."

"But I haven't expressed any contempt for this court," protested Wigglethorpe.

"Not yit ye hev'n't," grinned the justice. "But ye will, my friend; ye will before ye git a mile out o' town. I've made the fine patty stiff so's t' give ye plenty o' rope to move round in."—Harper's Weekly.

Doing Justice.

Professor Lawlace taught corporation law in a famous school. He had a reputation for wit. He was always making funny cracks at modern life and society. A student in answer to one of Lawlace's questions said grandiloquently:

"A lawyer's first, his sole duty, is to see that, though the heavens fall, justice is done."

"That justice is done," repeated Lawlace thoughtfully. "I'm, yes, exactly. And my experience has been that the lawyer who does justice oftenest is the one who first achieves a white palace in Fifth avenue overlooking the park."—New York Tribune.

Shipping and Coal.

It gives an impressive idea of the immensity of the international trade carried on in vessels to read that 55,000,000 tons of coal are consumed in a year in the furnaces of ships employed in international commerce.

Red Blood Resists Rheumatism

An attack of rheumatism does not guard the patient against a subsequent attack. On the contrary a person who has had rheumatism is more liable to be attacked than one who has not. The object, therefore, of medical treatment of the disease is to get the system into a condition in which it will resist the attacks.

Thin blood is a condition always present in rheumatism. Medical authorities agree that a disease does the blood become thin with greater rapidity. On the other hand rich, red blood resists rheumatism. Build up the blood and the rheumatic poisons will be driven out. The next wet, damp day will then have no terrors for you.

BRYAN APOLOGIZES

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Secretary Bryan yesterday made apology to the Paraguayan government through its minister here, for the insult to the Paraguayan flag in San Francisco July 4. On that day an unknown citizen tore down the flag from the consul's residence, declaring that he would permit none but the American flag to be displayed on Independence day.

Tree Fountain.

An extraordinary curiosity is to be seen in the Swiss village of Gunten, on Lake Thun. It takes the form of a natural tree fountain, the water flowing continuously from a spout high up in the tree. About twenty years ago the water from a spring was conducted through a shaft, and the supply pipe was directed through the trunk of a young poplar tree which was rammed in the ground. After a short time the trunk rooted, branches followed, and now there is a splendid top growth.

Short StoryCOLONEL ROWLAND'S LOVE

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"May I speak with Col. Rowland, please?"

Mrs. Hawthorne's voice trembled ever so slightly. The hand that held the telephone receiver was cold, but she was safe from observation in the booth at the railroad station, and not even the colonel at the other end of the wire guessed her nervousness.

"This is Col. Rowland." She caught her breath at the full, ringing tone. Here was no weakling to reckon with.

"Oh, colonel, I must have a talk with you, now, at once. I have just come from Chicago to see you about—about my boy Roy. You know him, Roy Hawthorne?"

"Yes, I know him, the young—"

The colonel's voice ended in a cough. "What can I do for you, Mrs. Hawthorne?"

"You can help me stop this marriage." Her tone grew stronger. "I simply won't have it take place now. Roy is everything in the world to me, and he hasn't even finished his course yet, at Cornell. He's nothing but a lad, colonel. Can you meet me as soon as possible, and find a way out?"

"My dear madame, there isn't a chance of prying the two apart with any known natural force," the colonel's voice rose a bit higher. "I have exhausted my influence and efforts, and I wash my hands of the entire affair."

"But they may even elope. Roy's last letter threatened it. That is why I came at once. It must be stopped. If you could get Miss Rowland away by some pretext, I am sure I could feign illness, and that Roy would at least go home with me."

"Suppose we lunch together and discuss the matter?" suggested the colonel. He liked the voice over the wire. It was very sweet, very hesitant and feminine. It appealed to every spark of chivalry in his makeup, and the colonel was from Kentucky.

Mrs. Hawthorne accepted with a little sigh of relief, and just as she paid at the operator's desk, and walked away, a girl's head appeared at the next booth to the one she occupied. Such a pretty head it was, an adorable little head with a close-fitting hat edged with pink rosebuds, and little blowaway curls escaping around the brim. She gave a number to the operator, and sat for fully fifteen minutes bending close over the receiver as though she feared it might tell some of her secrets. When she left, her face was full of radiant mischief, and she stepped into a waiting taxi with a last look at the big round station clock.

It was a wonderfully secluded corner the colonel had reserved on the roof garden of his hotel for his tete-a-tete lunch. And when he beheld the mother of Roy Hawthorne he felt a strange thrill of interest. She was slender and very fair. All in tenderest mauve, with a touch of black velvet here and there, and a little close bonnet of silk orchids on her shapely head.

She hardly raised her lashes until they were safe in a corner, and the colonel leaned forward with startled abruptness, his hands reaching for hers.

"Helene, Great Scott, I never dreamt this."

"Don't Bob, please, you hurt my hands. I know you didn't understand, of course, and if I had written and told you that Roy was the son of the one man you hated in life, it would have made matters worse still. But now you see why he simply cannot marry your daughter."

There were tears sparkling on her long lashes. A waiter approached, and the colonel glared at him.

"Go away, sir, until I motion for you, sir." He turned again to Mrs. Hawthorne. "When did—er—this person die, Helene?"

"Five years ago."

"And you never let me know?"

"There was Roy. I did not know whether you cared still, Bob."

"Cared. A man wastes his whole life in a hopeless passion, and the woman wonders whether he cares."

"You married."

"Because you did. I married a charming woman, a woman whom I respected and admired, but Helene, I loved you. You know. So do I. Why did you throw me over and go to Europe?"

"Oh, Bob it's so many years ago," she evaded. "I hardly remember. We were not engaged, and you had years of work ahead, West Point and then in the service. A wife would have been a drag."

"How about now?" asked the colonel, point blank.

"I mean?" she faltered.

"I mean how about our marriage now, at once. We are too far along in life to waste another day. Helene. The mere sight of you brings back the whole radiant, glorious romance of youth. We will have lunch, and be married at four. That will give you plenty of time to notify Roy, if you like—"

A voice came from the next table, behind the palm screen. It was Roy's.

"I'll give my consent now, governor, if you like. Evelyn and I were married half an hour ago."

The foliage parted, and the colonel and Mrs. Hawthorne beheld the two faces, Roy and Evelyn, their wayward children.

"We'll chaperon you, if you like, after lunch," said Evelyn, demurely. "I'd love to be matron of honor, papa."

"You have to get my consent before you can marry my mother," protested Roy. "Mother, dear, I simply can't allow this. I need you too much."

"You young dog," muttered the colonel savagely under his breath, but Helene laid her fingers softly over his clenched hand.

"Ah, Bob, forgive them," she turned to Evelyn, and kissed her through the green leaves. "How did you know I was here?"

"I was in the next booth at the station, planning our elopement," laughed Evelyn, happily.

Wistfully.

In France an old beggar was tortured to death as late as 1807 on the charge of being one who "communed with evil spirits," and in Spain a witch was burned in 1808. In 1850 in France a man and his wife tortured a suspected witch to death, and nothing at all was done with them by the criminal courts on account of the lingering belief in sorcery. Four years later a witch was drowned in England, and in 1860 one was burned in Mexico. In 1874, 1879, 1880 and again in 1889 witches were publicly burned in Russia, and even as late as 1890 regular judicial trials of witches were had in Prussia, Poland and Austria-Hungary.

Carried Out.

"Were your ideas carried out by congress?"

"Not till I got 'em into print," said the new member. "Then they were carried out in wastebaskets."—Washington Star

A Good Answer.

Three young surgeons during a terrible battle in the Balkans were working in an exposed and dangerous place. The general sent an orderly to them. The orderly galloped up with bowed head amid a rain of bullets and demanded angrily:

"What are you here for? The general wants to know what the deuce you're here for."

A young surgeon covered with blood looked up from the prostrate form he was bending over, and, with a smile, he answered:

"Tell the general we are here to remind you all of civilization in the midst of this brutality."—New York Tribune.

Looks Easy, but Try It.

Did you ever notice a jeweler wearing his magnifying glass in one eye? It looks easy, but try it. The inexperienced citizen who tries to look at something with such a glass is sure to close one eye. He can't look at the magnified object with the other eye opened, as can the jeweler. This is only another evidence that one must learn all the details of one's trade.

What is easy for the experienced jeweler is all but impossible for the novice.

CURE OF INEBRIATES
VERSUS PUNISHMENT

We quote the following editorial
written by Governor Foss, of Massachusetts, and published in the Madison State Journal:

Our method of dealing with in-ebriety is futile. For the habitual abuse of liquor breaks down the power of the human will to a point where a court sentence has no effect in helping the victim to regain his self-control.

Under our present system no attempt can be made by the court to learn the causes of drunkenness.
Mere proof that a man has been drunk suffices to satisfy the judge.
This is obviously insufficient, yet sentence is imposed.

Now, going to jail does not punish a man effectively. If it did, he would not return for more of the same treatment. His coming back proves that he has lost all self-control and that some way must be found to reach and help him before his will power has altogether broken down.

It is unquestionably sheer stupidity to send the same man to jail 50 successive times for being drunk.
Yet this thing is being done.

If such a man is taken not at his fiftieth commitment, but at his third,
or fourth, and incarcerated, not in a prison, but in an industrial or farm colony, AND MADE TO WORK, it is fairly hopeful that he will have health and energy enough left to become a useful member of society.

Once a chronic drunkard is compelled to work hard he will realize the seriousness of being arrested.

We sentence drunkards to long terms of imprisonment, clothing, feeding and housing them. Most of these men are, or should be, wage earners. In shutting them up we thrust their families into the street to get what they can from private or public charity.

Released prisoners are handicapped for life in their efforts to earn an honest living. I am confident that a large part of the evil of our current method of handling inebriety comes from the disgrace which it casts upon a young man by being sent to jail.

The average county jail is an old building, poorly equipped, doubtfully officered, overcrowded, without proper classification of prisoners, lacking means of exercise, having little or no systematic industry. IM-PRISONMENT IN SUCH A PLACE
DOES NOT TEND TO REFORM
ANYONE.

Owing largely to the congestion of low wage workers in large cities, the increased cost of living and the twentieth century pressure of industrial life, public intoxication increases constantly. But our method of dealing with inebriety has made no progress during the last 100 years.

To build up a policy which will lead to prevention and cure, chronic intemperance must be considered not as a misdemeanor, but as a disease.

Our jails, long places of futile punishment, must become moral hospitals.

To bring this about, Massachusetts is now working out a plan whereby the so-called chronic drunkard will be put into confinement very much as if he were mildly insane. The place of incarceration will be a farm colony, where the patient will be given hygienic conditions and put to work.

Such a man must work hard and usefully.

HE MUST EARN MONEY AND
THE MONEY MUST BE GIVEN TO HIS FAMILY.

He must stay in confinement until
he has conquered his habit.

He must go back to his old surroundings on probation.

Coupled with this proposed reform, I hope that a method will be found by which our courts will extend probation to a larger percentage of early cases of drunkenness, letting the offender off with the admonition that his third or fourth appearance in court will result in his being placed definitely in the custody of the state.

TEACHING SEX HYGIENE

It would be well for every city in the country to follow the lead of the Chicago board of education, which plans to have sex hygiene taught in the high schools beginning with the next term. Some will argue that home is the proper place for children to learn the mysteries of nature and perhaps it is the best place but offsetting this argument is the fact that it is not being taught in the home.
Much of the vice prevalent in the world is the result of inexcusable ignorance. Certain knowledge comes to all young people and when it comes from improper sources it is usually tainted with salacious and vicious suggestion. When there is no restraint upon the acquisition of such knowledge, vice naturally follows.

The number of young lives that have been ruined through a false and strange modesty that has been set up both in the home and in our educational system as a standard is incalculable. Young people should be taught in the usual classroom way,
since the home has failed to perform its mission, of the origin of man, so that no mystery may attach to it. The youth should be taught to reverence, preserve and conserve their bodies and their health. If it is not taught to them in the schools by proper teachers it will be learned from the alleys and the dark places instead of in the bright light of science and wholesome teaching.

To spread the information properly before the students of the high school is none too early. To have sex hygiene thoroughly understood and properly appreciated by the students means the spreading of a shield about the youth that must necessarily work
a moral benefit.

Secretary Bryan's peace plan has been accepted by eight nations. Wonder if Bill will want to be the president of the organization when it gets into working order.

Pistol pockets for women is the latest art of the dressmaker. It would seem by this that the fishpole hat pin is about to go out of fashion.

A Chicago doctor says that married persons live longer than single folks. But see the fun that the single folks have.

the fact that he doesn't have to do any lawn mowing.

What an American Helpmeet Would Do

At a London dinner recently the conversation turned to the various methods of working employed by literary geniuses. Among the examples cited was that of a well known poet, who, it was said, was wont to arouse his wife about 4 o'clock in the morning and exclaim:

"Maria, get up! I've thought of a good word!" Whereupon the poet's obedient helpmeet would crawl out of bed and make a note of the thought of word.

About an hour later, as like as not,
a new inspiration would seize the bard, whereupon he would again
arouse his wife, saying: "Maria, Maria, get up! I've thought of a better word!"

The company in general listened to the story with admiration, but a merry eyed American girl remarked:
"Well, if he's been my husband I should have replied: 'Alpheus, get up yourself! I've thought of a bad word!'"

Would Part with the Plate

A little girl came down to dessert
at a dinner party, and sat next to her mother. This lady was much occupied in talking to her neighbors and omitted to give the child anything to eat. After some time the little girl, sobs rising in her throat, held up her plate and said: "Does anybody want a clean plate?"

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Underwood

Old Oscar can tell you as quick as a wink,
The state of the tariff from sgate
to zinc.

He knows every crook and he knows every turn,
There's nothing remaining for Oscar to learn.

He reels off statistics, yes, yard after yard, Concerning rope, sugar, cigars,
soap and lard,

Cheese, axle grease, breakfast food,
hair oil and pills,
Tacks, calico, arnica, capsules and
squills.

We've tried hard to follow old Oscar's wild flights
In tariff revision. We've studied him nights.

But we must confess, though it grieves us most sore,
We know less about it than we did before.

The Underwood bill is as clear to us now
As a bucket of mud, we are pained to allow,

If he can explain it as he says he can,
Old Oscar is quite a remarkable man.

Like Old Fashioned Steak

Frederick Townsend Martin said, after a visit to one of the Bowery missions, in which he takes a profound interest:

"The misery we encounter in these missions saddens and at the same time edifies. If the rich would only be more charitable!"

"But the very rich, the very successful, are prone to look on failure and defeat with cruel, hard eyes. It is from the lowly that true charity
may be expected."

With a smile and a sigh Mr. Townsend Martin added:

"Like the old-fashioned beefsteak,
man needs a great deal of pounding before he is even a little tender to others."

Not Thinking of Wilhelm

There may have been a time when there would have been those to contend that the Brooklyn schoolboy in question did not return an entirely incorrect answer to a certain question put to him. As it was, however,
it must be confessed that the boy got his history, and physical geography somewhat mixed.

"What is the Kaiser?" asked the teacher.

"The Kaiser," said the boy, "is a stream of hot water that spouts up and disturbs the earth."—Judge.

Weeping, Wailing and Gnashing of Teeth

"Well, did he pay you?" asked the wife of a dentist who had been to collect a bill for a full set of false teeth that he had made for a man almost a year before.

"Pay me," growled the dentist.
"Not only did he refuse to pay me, but he actually had the effrontery to gnash at me—with my teeth!"

A Frog of Peculiar Habits.

South America has a frog of peculiar habits. Dwelling in the virgin forests, at the tops of the highest trees, it chooses as a site for its nursery some hollow stump and then proceeds to line it with resin procured from trees in the neighborhood. This lining serves to catch and hold the rainwater, with which it quickly becomes filled. As soon as this takes place the eggs are laid therein, and here they undergo development into tadpoles. How the resin is collected is a mystery, nor is it yet known how the separate pieces become welded to form the water tight basin necessary to insure the safety of the treasures deposited therein.

A Spectrum Victory.

A victory has been achieved by the spectrum, the little strip of colors
made by a beam of light passing through a triangular piece of glass, a victory that is almost as remarkable as spectrum analysis of the substances of which the stars are made or the spectrum determination as to how fast
a star revolves. By studies of the colored strip an astronomer has been able to fix the temperature of stars. Our sun has a temperature of 4,500 degrees
C., and the temperature of one star, known as Gamma Pegasi, he found to be 400,000 degrees C. Alpha Tauri he found to have only a modest 2,150 degrees.—Saturday Evening Post.

Flowers of France.

The lilies of France, or, rather, the fleur-de-lis, have for centuries decked royal canopy, kingly garb, the warrior monarch's shield and caparisons, the banners of the empire, but the foes of the republic today wear other blossoms—the Orleansists a white daisy and the Bonapartists the humble violet.

Look Out For Poison Ivy

Keep Your Blood Pure and Danger will be Avoided.

All Blood Disorders are Knocked Out
by S. S. S.

Strolling through the woods or clearing brush, picnickers, hunters, fishermen—look out for poison ivy. And in the meantime keep your blood pure by using S. S. S. If your skin is rough with eczema, pimples or any other eruption, S. S. S. stimulates the fine network of blood vessels in the skin to dry up and heal all sore spots.

S. S. S. will do this positively. It dominates the principle of osmosis, stimulates the cells of the skin to select
their own nutriment from the blood, made pure and healing by the wonderful medicinal ingredients of this famous blood purifier. It is a safe remedy, as it contains no minerals, and yet its action is a marvel.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 136

IN The WORLD
OF WOMEN

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, was recently appointed by Governor Sulzer of New York as member of a commission to investigate the management of affairs of state prisons, reformatory, the employment of convicts and plan adequate prison facilities.

One of the interesting groups attending the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg on the famous battlefield last week consisted of Mrs. Chas. F. Dye and Miss Cornelia Hancock, Philadelphia; Mrs.
Mary Stevens, Peabody, Mass.; Mrs.
Helen Sole, Sheboygan Falls, Wis.;
Mrs. Annie Irving, Newburg, N. Y., and Miss Margaret Hamilton, Wakefield, Mass., all nurses who cared for the soldiers during the struggle. They were entertained by Mrs. Salome Stewart, who threw her home open to the wounded during the war.

When Testimonials Weigh the Most

Here is an emigrant story, told at a meeting recently. In a village was a youth who had got himself into such a variety of scrapes that his people thought it would be better to dispatch him to Canada so as to get him away from old and doubtful associates. He agreed to go, provided those interested in his departure secured him some testimonials. Half a dozen were got for him. They sang his praises in unrestrained terms, spoke of his geniality, of his good
address and exceptional capability, and all the other virtues that few men have, but many get the credit for.

When the young man read the testimonials he turned to his father and exclaimed:

"Well, I'm hanged! I had no idea people thought so much of me. And now I know how much they like me
I'm bluffed if I'll go away at all."

Tommy North, after the first day,
was a pawn in this game—a captured pawn, laid to one side of the board. The police held him, it is true, until after the coroner's verdict; then, without apology, the turnkey cast him loose. His first concern was for his mother in the village of White Horse, Connecticut.
Only by false assurances and by the assistance of an aunt, who hid the
newspapers from her, did he succeed in keeping her away from New York. He hurried to her, and in two days mollified her anger—not at his
being accused of murder, but at his being drunk. He returned to find his job gone. Tommy North took such catastrophe more philosophically
than most. He had filled and lost a dozen jobs in three years of New York. "Easy come, easy go," was
his motto—as he told Rosalie Le Grange when he called to take away
his possessions, removed by her
from the Moore house.

"I'd like to stay," he told her,
"but I want to get the taste of this thing out of my mouth." He sat down on his trunk and looked depression. And depression, sometimes, rested ill upon that frank
countenance with its shock of unruly red hair. "Wouldn't seem so
bad if you didn't have all the murder company here. But I'm sensa-

"Now look a-here, Mr. North," said Rosalie, carefully folding one of his coats. "You don't never want

"It wouldn't have ruined my young

"Tell me," said Rosalie, pausing from folding coats and regarding him, arms akimbo, "do you really

Tommy North, unaccustomed to self-analysis, turned this over in his mind for several seconds.

"Well, no," he said at length,
"can't say I do. I suppose everybody loathes the Demon when he's going

"Smooth" with the rest of them,
even when it tears my diaphragm

"Was this the first time you were ever drunk then?"

"The first! Near the hundred and sev-

"I've got your number," said Rosalie Le Grange. "There's a small

Perhaps you are right; the unfold-

The next day, an aviator accom-

by aeroplane. It is true that he had no need of eloping, the family-in-law being as willing as his actress-bridle. The young couple merely chose that method as a way of starting prosperously on the road of life. But the newspapers, in view of this dazzling picture-story, inquired
not too closely regarding motives.
And scarcely had news of this event
given way to impressions of special writers, when a train went over a trestle in Connecticut. By the time the papers had finished with this,
the Hanska case had dwindled to two-inch items, single head. The District Attorney delayed, the Grand

while the forces of Martin McGee combated New York and New Eng-

here let me quote Inspector McGee.
Entering his private office in a state of suppressed irritation bordering on fury, the Inspector met his door-

inferior the privilege of familiarity with the truly great.

"How are your Third Degree pro-

asked.

"Damn him!" cried Martin Mc-Gee heartily. "damn him! What are you going to do with a man when he laughs at you?"

CHAPTER V.
Tommy North.

Tommy North, after the first day,
was a pawn in this game—a captured pawn, laid to one side of the board. The police held him, it is
true, until after the coroner's verdict; then, without apology, the
concern was for his mother in the village of White Horse, Connecticut.
Only by false assurances and by the
assistance of an aunt, who hid the
newspapers from her, did he succeed in keeping her away from New York. He hurried to her, and in two
days mollified her anger—not at his
being accused of murder, but at his
being drunk. He returned to find his
job gone. Tommy North took such
catastrophe more philosophically
than most. He had filled and lost a dozen jobs in three years of New York. "Easy come, easy go," was
his motto—as he told Rosalie Le Grange when he called to take away
his possessions, removed by her
from the Moore house.

"I'd like to stay," he told her,
"but I want to get the taste of this
thing out of my mouth." He sat
down on his trunk and looked depression. And depression, sometimes, rested ill upon that frank
countenance with its shock of un-
ruly red hair. "Wouldn't seem so
bad if you didn't have all the murder company here. But I'm sensative, I guess. I've lost my job on ac-

Banner Year For Schools Of City

In a document which shows in bold figures that the schools of the city have completed a banner year in every department, Superintendent Benet Monday presented his annual report to the school board. The report, among other details, shows an increase in enrollment greater than in any year since 1896. The essential parts of the report follow:

Board of Education:

Gentlemen: In accordance with your rules, I submit the following report for the school year ending in June, 1913:

The various tables of statistics, based upon attendance, shows the same gain over the preceding year that 1912 showed over 1911. The smallpox scare, which resulted in the closing, first of the six or eight rooms in four different schools, next the closing of the whole Hamilton building and finally the exclusion from all the public schools of non-vaccinated children brought down the figures of attendance below the corresponding statistics of the preceding year. The absence caused by the after effects of the vaccination also cut heavily into our attendance record during the first semester. During the second semester, small epidemics of mumps and measles on the north side and whooping cough on the south side made further inroads into the attendance column.

In spite of this great loss of time, the pupils have gone ahead in greater numbers than ever before. Our school population is no longer shrinking, as the following table shows:

School Census City of La Crosse 1912
Age	Male, Female, Total
Four	360 339 699
Five	293 286 579
Six	274 286 560
Seven	240 263 503
Eight	316 281 597
Nine	309 267 576
Ten	273 260 533
Eleven	247 256 503
Twelve	262 299 561
Thirteen	285 287 572
Fourteen	276 270 546
Fifteen	294 290 584
Sixteen	319 355 674
Seventeen	270 326 596
Eighteen	312 365 677
Nineteen	482 504 986

Totals . . . 4812 4934 9746

The total enrollment, 4811, shows a gain of 210 over the figures of a year ago. This is the largest increase in attendance since 1895-96, when the burning of a large parochial school threw its pupils for a few years into the public school system.

The distribution of the enrollment through the grades is assuming a better proportion with each year of progress. The following table gives the comparison between the percentage of pupils in the various grades during the semester just closed and the semester ending February 1, 1913, at which time there were practically the same number of children enrolled as at present. The middle column gives the average of all graded schools in the United States. In each case the number of pupils in the third grade is taken as 100 per cent:

La Crosse	Average of U. S.	La Crosse
1st Year	1st Year	1st Year
Post Grads.	1.0	1.0
4th year H. S.	4.0	4.0
3rd	13.0	13.0
2nd	18.0	18.0
1st	27.0	27.0
8th grade	24.0	24.0
7th	43.0	43.0
6th	49.0	49.0
5th	79.0	79.0
4th	86.0	86.0
3rd	100.0	100.0
2nd	87.0	87.0
1st	127.0	127.0
Kindergarten	102.0	102.0
School for deaf	1.0	1.0
Ungraded rooms	11.0	11.0

It will be observed that our schools at present run further ahead of the average of the country than they were behind it in 1905. If I may say this without boasting, this is a remarkable showing. I know of only one city of our class, or larger, in the country which can show a larger percentage of pupils in the upper grades and high school, where the enrollment is drawn from within the city itself. There are some cities with large high school enrollment, a large percentage of which is made up of tuition pupils from the surrounding country. Our tuition pupils in high school amount to less than 2 per cent of the whole.

The following table, showing the increase in percentage of promotion during the past nine years, helps to explain this gain in the enrollment of the upper grades:

Percentage of Promotions
All public schools	Pct.
1904-05	74.1
1905-06	74.9
1906-07	78.5
1907-08	77.9
1908-09	79.5
1909-10	79.8
1910-11	88.1
1911-12	88.6
1912-13, 1st semester	92.4
1912-13, 2nd semester	95.5

The reasons for this increase are not hard to find. Briefly summarized they are as follows: 1905, introduction of the commercial course into the high school; 1906, erection of new high school building; 1907, introduction into the 7th and 8th grades of manual training and cooking; engaging a physical director for the grades; organization of many new activities in the high school; passage of rules making continuance in high school dependent upon maintaining a certain grade; 1908, introduction into the 5th and 6th grades of sewing and manual training; addition to the high school curriculum of chemistry, trigonometry, French, commercial law, commercial geography and penmanship; construction of the high school athletic field; 1909, securing a physical director for high school girls; 1910, providing the grades with up-to-date text books, chosen with an idea of interesting the pupils; raising the maxima for all teachers; requiring a report from each principal and teacher on every pupil who left school, as to what had been done towards inducing him to return; inauguration of a policy of refusing permits to work to all except very needy families; addition of sewing and cooking to the high school curriculum; 1911, installation of kindergartens and ungraded rooms; further changes in text books; inauguration of the special help period for backward children and of a policy of holding each teacher to account for failure among her pupils; 1912, addition of manual training to high school curriculum; addition of elementary manual training (paper construction and rug and hammock weaving) to the work of the lower grades; addition of more kindergartens; inauguration of the summer schools.

It is too soon to estimate the effect of the changes which have been made during the past year; they shall be enumerated on another page. During the past eight years, the number of high school graduates has increased from 27 to 103; and there is every reason to expect a class of 120 in 1914 and of close to 150 the following year. The value of each additional year of education after the sixth grade, increases in geometrical ratio. The eighth grade is twice as valuable to the child as the seventh and the third year in high school is twice as valuable as the second. It is not the number of children enrolled in a school system that proves its value to the public, but the number of young people whom it turns out, having taught them all that it can.

La Crosse spent on its schools in 1905-06 the sum of $118,000. During the last year we spent $158,000, an increase of 34 per cent in seven years. The cost of living has increased over 20 per cent in this period of time, but disregard this. In 1905, La Crosse turned out 26 young people as products of its educational system, in 1913, 103, practically 400 per cent of the number graduated seven years ago.

In the past eight years the enrollment in the high school has increased from 290 to 780. Each high school student costs the city practically $75 a year, while a pupil in the grades costs but $30. The enrollment all over the city remaining practically the same, it is readily perceived that the transfer of 500 pupils from the grade column to the high school is bound to cost the city 500 times $45, or $22,500.

The people of our city are at last realizing that the schools are paying big dividends on the money invested in them and that the board of education has been very economical in its administration of the funds and modest in its demands.

I can remember distinctly when the world's record in the pole vault stood at 10 feet 10 inches, and men said that it would never be beaten. Now there are four men in the college world who can clear 13 feet. The athletes of today are no stronger than those of twenty years ago; they have simply learned better methods of using their strength.

The time is coming when the average high school graduate will be seventeen years old instead of nineteen, as at present, and this time will be gained in the early years of his schooling.

The summer schools last year were attended by 41 pupils, every one of whom made the grade for which he was working. The tuition of $5, unfortunately, kept away some of the pupils who needed it the most. This summer, with the tuition reduced to $2.50, we have 92 enrolled. The great event of the year was, of course, the erection of the new annex to the high school building. The facts and figures are all so fresh in our minds that there is no need of recounting them.

Mr. Hixon's princely gift has made our high school plant the best in the state and one of the best in the country. He has received the thanks of the board, the council, and the press, and of the citizens at large; however, I wish to add my small word of appreciation for the spirit of interest in the welfare of the young people in which the building was given. It is not an uncommon thing for a wealthy man to make a large gift to the public. It is an uncommon thing for such a man to devote the best thoughts of one of the best years of his life to the planning of this gift, and for him to add so much to the gift in the way of kindly interest in our boys and girls.

Although it is not directly connected with the work of this board, I may state, in passing, that the industrial day and evening school has been a great success, enrolling from two to five hours work a week 802 young people not regularly attending school. The administration of the school was highly praised by Assistant Superintendent Hicks.

The coming year will see an increase in the enrollment of the high school of not fewer than one hundred pupils, and it may reach one hundred and twenty. Two new seating rooms must be fitted out with desks, one in the fall and another the first of February. The only room available just at this moment is the one formerly used for the mechanical drawing classes which now work in the Hixon annex.

As has been already stated, the cutting in half of the tuition for the summer school resulted this year in more than doubling the attendance. Still, the $2.50 is prohibitory to some children who need the work. It costs the city about $16 for each child in the grades each year. To get a child ahead or prevent his repeating a grade through summer school costs less than $3 apiece at the present rate of enrollment. We charge the pupils $2.50 so that it is costing us 50 cents instead of $16. I should like to see this tuition either abolished entirely or cut down to 50 cents, since many feel that if it were free the pupils would not appreciate it as well as if some small tuition were charged. I hope next summer to see the shops of the Hixon annex thrown open to high school boys at a very small cost. We tried to organize a class this year on the basis of a $5 tuition, but could not muster enough pupils to make it worth while.

The chance to use tools is something that appeals to nearly every boy. In some of the larger cities where progressive men are in charge, all grammar schools are fitted up with shops. A pupil who is falling badly in the mental work is given work more than half the time in the shop. The result invariably is that the pupil's mental work begins to improve also.

I hope to see a shop and a domestic science room fitted up in every building in the city. Fewer than half of them are so equipped at present. A great deal of valuable time is lost in making the pupils go back and forth from one building to another during school hours.

Two boys who in the upper grades were failing in their lessons were transferred to the all day industrial school this year, where both did very good work. Next year, I propose to give them a trial in high school, and shall be greatly disappointed if they do not "make good."

I was much pleased to learn the other day that a similar experience had proved successful in Newton, Mass. The superintendent gathered out of the 7th and 8th grades all 16 and 17 year old pupils and transferred them to the high school, where half of their work was assigned in the shops and kitchens. This was considered their preparatory year, and the following term as many as wished to were entered in the regular high school course. The results were astonishing: over three-fourths of these pupils who in the ordinary run of events would have dropped out without ever entering high school entered the regular course and did better than the average pupil. With your sanction, I propose to try this experiment with some of the over-age pupils in our upper grades.

A need which has been commented on by several of the principals is that of bathing facilities in the graded schools. There should be two shower baths in each building in the city. We teach the necessity of frequent baths and yet do not afford the opportunity of practicing our precepts. There are an astonishing number of children who each fall are sewed up in their underclothing for the winter. To provide against this, the public schools of Chicago are now all equipped with baths and there is a rule that each child shall "take a bath all over" once a week at least.

The playgrounds surrounding our buildings are very poorly equipped with apparatus. Two swings and an unsafe turning pole constitute the total equipment in most cases. It would cost very little to fit them all out with quoits, slides, swings, ropes, rings, poles and bars, and it would make a tremendous difference in the attitude of the children toward physical exercise. Go by a school house in the summer time—it is deserted. This should not be so. The grounds are there and the city is drawing no interest from the money invested in them. A great deal of the apparatus could be made in our new annex, the remainder could be bought at a small expense.

It does not seem right to provide for the high school children every thing that heart could wish and leave the grades so destitute. Each neighborhood should have a larger use of its school plant, and I am glad to see the buildings used more frequently for meetings, lectures, etc. Each few years sees a new branching out of educational activities. Five years ago the cry was "manual training," today it is "vocational education." There is another field as yet unopened to which I believe our attention should next be turned, namely, social and economic education. With your sanction, I propose to begin the coming year some instruction in elementary economics to our children in the upper grades. They should be taught the dignity of labor, the source of wealth, the difference between a producer and a parasite, and the waste and needlessness of poverty and war. In this respect, our schools, all over the country, are sadly neglecting their duty.

ENTERTAINS AT A LAWN PARTY

Miss Ada Wiles, 1609 Avon street, entertained Thursday evening at a lawn party in honor of Miss Pearl Garrington, Guttenberg, Iowa. A delicious luncheon was served the guests. The Misses Helen Fletcher, Vivian Colligan and Ruby Wiles assisted in the serving. Those present were the Misses Pearl Garrington, Ada Wiles, Gertrude Gunderson, Charlotte Lumway, Meta Manke, Edith Knutson, Helen Birnbaum, Mildred Mourning, Stella Holloway, Morella Granke and the Messrs. E. Bollrud, O. Roney, L. Munson, C. Knutson, H. Staats, A. Gitter, J. Argall, E. Knutson, R. Dwyer, E. Dwyer and H. Downey.

Henry Halvorson, Bangor, is transacting business and visiting friends on the north side of the city for a few days.

Guy Parker, 1426 Caledonia street is spending a few days at the head of French Island, fishing and camping.

Mrs. A. H. Redpath and son, Harry Redpath, have left the city for Broadview, Mont., where they will spend the next several months.

THE IDEAL FRIEND.

Two eminent men of Queen Victoria's reign, Lord Houghton and W. E. Forster, had once been chatting among a group of friends, says a volume entitled "Half Lengths." When Lord Houghton left the room one of the company said, "That's the man to whom I should turn if I were in trouble," to which Forster rejoined, "He is the man to whom I should turn if I were in disgrace." It was difficult to find more forceful words with which to describe the ideal friend.

LA CROSSE MAN IS VICTIM OF A YEGG

Bert Morgan Spends a Week in Baraboo Hospital After Being Slugged

FOUND NEAR RAILROAD TRACK

Diamond Pin, Money and Hat, Coat and Vest Are Taken from Him

After being confined in the Baraboo hospital since July 4, with a severely cut head, the result of a hold up near that city, Bert Morgan, a former employee of the La Crosse Stone company, was able to return to his home, 229 South Twenty-second street yesterday, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Louis L. Morgan, who was called to Baraboo at the time of the injury.

On the morning of the fourth, Mr. Morgan was walking a short distance from Baraboo on the railroad tracks. Passing over a small culvert along the track and noticing a spring bubbling in the sand at the bottom, he left the bridge and went to be spring to quench his thirst.

As Morgan stepped to the spring and bent over to drink, he says a tramp who had been sitting nearby struck him with a club. He was picked up by a passing party of people and taken to the hospital at Baraboo. A diamond pin, some money and his hat, coat and vest were missing. He lay unconscious until Monday. Through friends in Baraboo who knew Morgan, his sister was summoned from this city. It was necessary for physicians to take eighteen stitches in the wound. He will recover. The police of Baraboo have failed to find any trace of the tramp who struck Morgan, or to locate the stolen goods.

SUN FISH BITE ON COLORED FELT

According to eye witnesses to the catch of thirty-seven large sun fish by Edward Botz, 1218 Caledonia St., yesterday, in Jolliet's bay, considerable light has been shed on a mystery that has baffled north side fishermen for several months, and time worn theories that live bait is necessary to catch fish on a hook have been exploded.

When Mr. Botz would return from his regular fishing trips with more fish than he could carry, those more unlucky began to get curious. They watched Mr. Botz while he was fishing. Nothing was ever used by him but an old bamboo pole and line and a hook.

The important part that the fish fans forgot to ask Mr. Botz was the nature of his bait. When he returned yesterday afternoon with the heavy string of fish, their curiosity got the better of them and they asked Mr. Botz to put them wise. "Red and white felt, is all I ever use for sunfish," was Mr. Botz's reply.

A RECIPE FOR DR. JOHNSON.

Dr. Johnson called one morning on Benjamin West to converse with him on American affairs. After some time Mr. West said that he had a young American (Gilbert Stuart) living with him, from whom he might derive some information, and introduced Stuart. The conversation continued (Stuart being thus invited to take a part in it, when the doctor observed to Mr. West that the young man spoke very good English and, turning to Stuart, rudely asked him where he had learned it. Stuart very promptly replied: "Sir, I can better tell you where I did not learn it. It was not from your dictionary."

Warner's Safe Remedies

is more prevalent and more destructive than any other disease suffered by mankind, and you should not allow its elusive character to blind you until the advanced stages have been reached. If you're nervous, lack ambition and have backache and indigestion, it is almost certain that the function of the kidneys to remove impurities is impaired and should be remedied immediately.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy acts specifically upon the kidneys and liver in such a manner that it tones these organs and establishes a healthy condition if not taken too late. For 36 years it has been the standard remedy for kidney and liver diseases.

"I was a great sufferer from kidney and liver trouble. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy relieved me at once. It has made me a new person."—Mrs. John Richey, Salt Lake, Miss.

GLAD JOHNSON IS GONE

CHICAGO, July 11.—Though Asstant District Attorney Parkin declared that an amendment to the extradition treaty between the United States and France could be obtained in twenty days and Jack Johnson returned to this country, no one around the federal building seriously believed today that such an amendment would be sought. Federal officials here privately express the opinion that Uncle Sam got the best of the bargain when Johnson fled, leaving his bond to be forfeited. Mrs. Tina Johnson, mother of the pugilist, informed federal officers today that she had received a cablegram from Jack declaring he would return in October.

DIES IN HIS WAGON

RUSHFORD FARMER HAS APO-PLEXY AND BODY IS FOUND BY ROAD AFTER HIS TEAM RUNS AWAY

RUSHFORD, Minn., July 11.—
(Special.)—Stricken with apoplexy while driving a loaded wagon to town, the body of Ivor Kinneberg, 45, who lived three and a half miles south of Rushford on the Blatchford road, was found late yesterday afternoon by his young son in the bushes beside the road. Kinneberg's body had been thrown out when his team, feeling no grip on the reins, ran away.

Kinneberg started out ahead of his son with a wagon loaded with produce. His son was a hundred yards or so behind, and suddenly he noticed his father was slumped in his seat. Thinking him ill, he attempted to overtake his father. But the senior Kinneberg's team dashed off down the road and he could not catch them.

The son stopped an auto party,
asking for news of the runaway.
They told him they had seen an apparently drunken man beside the road. The man proved to be Kinne-berg, dead. He had a few scratches, but a physician who was called from this city, said death was due to apoplexy.

The funeral will be held Sunday from the house at 1 o'clock and at 1:30 from the Highland Prairie church. Rev. Christian Magelsson will conduct the services.

SYNOD DISCUSSES DOCTRINES.

APPLETON, Wis., July 11.— Doctrinal discussion consumed the morning session of the sixty-third annual Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran synod today. The 500 delegates, laymen and clergymen here for the meeting took part in the discussion of the "Holy Sacrament" until adjournment was taken at noon and reports of committees were scheduled to take up the afternoon session.

The report of the committee appointed to consider possible amalgamation of the Missouri and Wisconsin synods was expected tomorrow.

VICE PROBE ECHO OVER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11.—
This city today considered as closed
the last incident connected with the investigation of the senate vice commission. Mrs. Lute Pease Vredenburg was granted an absolute divorce late yesterday from Thomas Vredenburg, Jr., on the grounds of infidelity. The divorce proceedings were instituted against the young millionaire lumberman after his explanation of charges made against Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara.
Vredenburg was alleged to have spent the greater part of three days
in a Chicago hotel with a Springfield woman. O'Hara was vindicated by a senate committee appointed to investigate the charges.

Panthelms.

Panthelms, according to a recently published book on "Mysticism and

ing even among Mohammedans. The author quotes Bayazid Bestemi, a mystic of the ninth century, as uttering this sentiment: "When men imagine that they are adoring Allah, it is Allah who adores himself." This seems a bolder rhetorical conception even than is contained in Emerson's "Brahma":

YESTERDAY'S WORK IN THE LEGISLATURE

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—All the waterpower bills before this legislature have been made a special order for next Wednesday at 9 a. m.
Senator Paul Huston said today that the senate committee on conservation had no amendment to offer to the bill recently drafted by it and that the committee will insist upon its passage. With equal promptness representative waterpower men will insist on the Ackley bill, which was drawn by Attorney C. T. Bundy of Eau Claire.

The whole day, Thursday, was spent by the senate, sitting as a committee of the whole, in hearing arguments by the waterpower attorneys. The main debate on the waterpower bills was closed at five o'clock in the afternoon by G. D.
Jones, of Wausau, who is financially concerned in waterpowers. He said that waterpower development was sadly needed in northern Wisconsin for the manufacture of pulpwood. He denied there was any waterpower trust and said that with few exceptions waterpowers of Wisconsin were owned by individual citizens.

At the afternoon session Attorney
Bundy said that waterpower owners would rather have no legislation enacted than the bill proposed by the committee. He predicted that if Wisconsin passed the Ackley bill
there would follow the most rapid development of waterpower properties of any state in the union.

The three big state appropriation bills, carrying upwards of $14,000, 000 for the next biennial period, were sent through the senate last night without a word of opposition or a vote of protest. Because of a slight amendment incorporated in the university appropriation bill,
that measure will have to be returned to the assembly. The highway aid bill and the charitable and penal bill now go to the governor. It was intended to offer an amendment to the educational bill for $100,000 to erect a physical education building at the La Crosse normal school. After a consultation among senators it was decided to include this provision in the general departmental bill.

By a vote of 14 to 7, the senate passed the Battis bill providing for a system of water reservoirs on the upper Wolf river. Governor McGovern's veto of the Rowe bill reorganizing the board of university visitors

was sustained by a vote of 19 to 3.
The spectacle of the senate attempting to talk a bill to death was witnessed last night when the Chin-cock bill to investigate the feasibility of a canal between Lake Superior and the Mississippi river was under discussion. The bill was concurred in by a vote of 15 to 6.

The senate passed a bill appropriating $300 to pay the expenses of committee to investigate the feasibility of erecting monuments on the site of the battles of Antietam and Gettysburg. It passed a bill appropriating nearly $200,000 for the erection of a reformatory for female offenders, which will be located in Fond du Lac county.

With only the vote of Senator A.
E. Martin in protest, the senate killed the bill permitting towns, villages and counties to vote aid for the construction of interurban railroad lines. It passed the bill appropriating $50 for the purchase of additional land at the site of the first territorial capitol at Beloit; and concurred in the Bingham bill giving the industrial commission power to supervise and regulate employment agencies, the Holmes bill appropriating $10,000 annually for a tuberculosis camp in the state forest reserve, and the Peavey bill for the establishment of a soils laboratory at the state agricultural college.

The Mahon minimum wage bill,
the Walsh bill to legalize invalid saloon licenses, and the Whiteside forestry bill were placed on next Wednesday's calendar.

Senator Burke introduced a new bill giving cities of 25,000 or more population the right to segregate certain portions of the city as factory and residential districts. The senate adopted a substitute amendment to the Nye bill permitting state institutions to have separate bids for their printing. Senator A. E. Martin moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the Dietrich bill regulating the work of barbers was killed at Wednesday night's session,
and further consideration was postponed until next Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—That the first step in the federal investigation into the receivership of the ced today that the books of the corporation have been ordered secured

MILITIAMAN DIES SUDDENLY AT CAMP

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 11.—
Private Charles Clauson, company
M, Manitowoc, died suddenly here yesterday. He gave no evidence of any illness, when suddenly he fell.
His comrades sprang to his assistance, but in a few minutes he ceased to breathe.

The regiment was returning from the morning maneuver, and Private Clauson was joking with comrades,
all well pleased with the morning's
work.

This is the first death to occur on the state reservation since 1899,
when a member of company K of Beaver Dam accidentally exploded a shell he had found on the artillery range.

MUST SAY WEDDING DATE FOR JUDGE

MILWAUKEE, July 11.—Philip Lehorski, town of Lake, charged with attacking his wife, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Elsnor
in district court to repeat ten times daily for the next two months the date of his marriage, June 14, 1887.

Lehorski had been unable to remember the date when questioned
by Judge Elsnor. The case was continued sixty days, the judge threatening to send Lehorski to the house of correction if he could not remember the date at the end of that time. It is alleged that when attacked Mrs. Lehorski climbed to the roof of her home to escape her husband.

REVENGES INSULT TO FLAG

DENVER, Col., July 11.—Corporal Edward Carswell of the marine corps had to have his hand treated today after having knocked out Antonio Rossi, an I. W. W. speaker, whom Carswell accused of insulting
the American flag.

Good Motor Cars at Very Low Prices

SECOND-HAND vs. USED CARS

Second-hand Cars are usually sold at a price that will yield a profit.
They are in many instances doctored. The best in them has been used up by their former owners.

The Used Cars herein advertised are cars that have given satisfaction. The former owners found that their social needs demanded a larger and finer car.
They then purchased a 1913 ALCO.

The business policy of the company and its wide spread reputation for fair dealing is your assurance that these cars are exactly as we represent them. The American Locomotive Company always moves used cars quickly, therefore we have placed on each car a price that is without profit and in each case is extremely low, considering the condition of the car and its real value.

FARMER ARRESTED AFTER BODY OF CHILD IS EXHUMED AND FOUND TO BE COVERED WITH BRUISES

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 11.—Following the arrest of Herman Moore, a farmer living near here, in connection with the disappearance of his three year old son, he said the child had died June 30 and was buried in the family private burial ground.

Police immediately dug up the grave Moore pointed out. They found the body of the child crammed in a box three inches too short. It was dressed only in night clothes and covered with bruises from head to foot.

Moore's wife, who had fled to Martin's Ferry, Ohio, upon her husband's arrest, was taken into custody there. A charge of murder has been brought against the couple by Prosecutor J. D. Parriott.

Mrs. Moore is not the mother of the child. Neighbors have complained for months that she abused the boy.

A. V. KLAUS OFF FOR JAVA SCHOOL

Under a three-year contract with the missionary board of the Methodist Episcopal church as a missionary teacher in their school at Batavia, Java, A. V. Klaus, 25, son of Rev. John H. Klaus, pastor of the German Methodist church here, will leave La Crosse tomorrow for New York, to sail on the first leg of his long journey.

He will be on the water the better part of two months in his trip. Mr. Klaus, who is unmarried, has just completed his course at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill. He also has graduated from Garrett Biblical institute, of Chicago.

RETURN TO ROCHESTER

NOT ASKED TO CONFER

PRESIDENT OF CONDUCTORS AND TRAINMEN DENY THEY WERE ASKED TO WASHINGTON FOR CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, July 11.—A. B. Garretson, president of the railway conductors organization, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, sprung a surprise here this afternoon by denying that the representatives of the employees of forty-two eastern railways involved in the present strike controversy had received any invitation from President Wilson to go to Washington on Monday for a conference.

That the firemen may be drawn into the wage dispute was intimated this afternoon, when Albert Phillips, a member of the firemen's arbitration committee, said that the railroads are not living up to their agreement with the firemen.

AMERICANS WIN IN THE DOUBLES

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 11.—Harold Hackett and Maurice E. McLaughlin, representing America in the semi-finals of the preliminary matches for the Dwight F. Davis cup, today defeated Heinrich Kleinschroth and Friedrich W. Rahe, of the German team, in the doubles match. This qualifies the American team for the finals. They will meet the winner of the Canadian-Belgian matches to decide which team shall appear against the Englishmen in the challenge round for the international tennis trophy.

REFUSES HOUSE PAPERS

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Balked in its efforts to obtain the "papers" in the Mulhall case from the senate lobby committee, the house lobby probes today considered a policy of "friendly rivalry" with the senate in the double headed lobby hunt. Examination of several state witnesses named by Colonel Mulhall was planned by the house committee. They considered subpoenas for former Speaker Cannon, former Representative James Watson of Indiana, former Representative Pearce of Maryland and members in 1908 of the house judiciary committee to lead off the house inquiry.

GIRL LOST IN TRANCE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 11.—Up to noon the police had found no trace of Helen Strehlow, who left her home Thursday morning after going into a trance from which it was difficult to arouse her Wednesday night. The physicians who attended the young woman pronounced the trance to be hypnotic and her relatives fear she is wandering about under unfriendly mesmeric influence.

MARSHAL LIKES SPEEDERS

PLYMOUTH, Ind., July 11.—Motor parties arriving from Duckfoot, a town near Lake Maxinkuckee, today reported that the town marshal had hung this notice in front of the town hall: "Notice to Automobilists: Speed limit, 75 miles an hour. Drive as fast as you damn please."

JEALOUS—TRIES SUICIDE

PLAINFIELD, Wis., July 11.—That jealousy prompted Mrs. Jep McIntee to attempt suicide was the consensus of opinion here today. Mrs. McIntee is in the hospital in a critical condition as the result of attempted self-destruction by chloroform.

THE CONGRESS CLOCK

Senate met at 2 p. m. Finance committee reported favorably the tariff bill. House not in session. Lobby committee met to plan procedure. Judiciary committee considered bill extending the Erdman law.

BOARDMAN TO RESIGN

RUMOR CURRENT THAT STATE ADJUTANT WILL QUIT AS SOON AS PRESENT CAMP CLOSES

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—According to a rumor current here today, Adjutant General Charles R. Boardman will announce his resignation at the close of the present encampment. He is now at Camp Douglas. The reason for the rumored resignation is not known.

Boardman's home is in Oshkosh. For years he was a printer and publisher and still retains his business interests there. He was appointed adjutant general by Governor La Follette and continued in office under Davidson and McGovern.

ASK $15,000,000 FROM KATY LINE

AUSTIN, Texas, July 11.—Attorney General B. F. Looney today filed an amended petition in the suit of the state against the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, which originally sought to forfeit the charter of that road, a Texas corporation. The amendments to the original petition pray for the recovery of penalties against the defendant company in the sum of $15,000,000 for alleged violation of anti-trust laws. The petition alleges that the road has merged its different Texas subsidiaries into one corporation in violation of the law.

FIGHT FOR CONVENTION

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 11.—Atlantic City and St. Paul were the only contestants in the field today for the 1914 session of the National Education association. Early in the convention St. Paul appeared to be the leading candidate but today Atlantic City began to forge ahead. The N. E. A. will meet at Oakland, Cal., in 1915, and there was a feeling today that next year's convention should go to the far east. The decision will be reached tomorrow when the new board of directors meets. The final general session of the convention will be held at the Mormon Tabernacle tonight.

TEXAS SUES "KATY"

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11.—Joseph M. Bryson, general counsel for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway in St. Louis, said today that he had received a telegram from the company's general attorney at Austin, notifying him that the state of Texas has instituted suit against the "Katy" on the charge of violating the Texas anti-trust act, passed by the last general assembly of that state.

NOTED ATTORNEY KILLED.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 11.—James H. Harrod, prominent in state and national politics, assistant counsel for the state in the recent railway rate litigation, was struck and killed by an automobile this afternoon, as he was alighting from a street car. The car was driven by its new owner. Harrod made the race for governor a number of years ago. He was a personal friend of President Wilson and was in line for appointment as United States district attorney here.

ENGINEERS TO ELECT

MILWAUKEE, July 11.—Officers were to be elected at the afternoon State Stationary Engineers' association here today. An illustrated lecture on new mechanical types took up the morning session of the convention.

ENDORSE CURRENCY STAND

DULUTH, Minn., July 11.—The Minnesota State Bankers' association this afternoon endorsed the stand of the American Bankers' association in proposed currency laws. One cent postage also was endorsed.

HAVENS HAS ACCIDENT

R. FRANCIS TAKES LEAD WHEN FORMER HOLDER OF FIRST PLACE IN FLIGHT DROPS BACK

HOLLAND, Mich., July 11.—Roy Francis, San Francisco's aviator, is believed to have taken the lead in the Chicago to Detroit flying boat cruise. No word has been heard from Francis since he flew out of Macatawa bay early today on the heels of Beckwith Havens, but he thought to be approaching Magistee.

An accident halted Havens near Pentwater, Mich., and lifeboats have gone to his rescue. Telephone messages from several towns south of Holland reported Glenn Martin, who left Michigan City, Ind., at 9:24 a. m., is speeding toward Holland and is expected to arrive at Macatawa bay this afternoon.

MAY DECLINE POST.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 11.—Attorney Claude Ball of this city, who was yesterday tendered the position of attorney general for the territory of Hawaii, said today that he had not decided to accept the position, although he greatly appreciated it coming through Speaker Champ Clark. Ball says he and his wife will decide today.

Ball was prosecuting attorney of this county for a number of terms and was a candidate for congress last year. With the understanding that if Mr. Clark was not nominated for the presidency he would withdraw from the race.

INVESTIGATE LAMAR

NEW YORK, July 11.—The federal grand jury here today plunged actively into the investigation of the charges against David Lamar resulting from his admissions in Washington as to impersonating congressmen in telephone conversations.

TOY PISTOL SCARES HOUSE OF COMMONS

English Legislators Frightened by Male Suffragette with Cap Pistol

LONDON, July 11.—A sensational suffragette demonstration, a part of which was the frightening of the house of commons into the belief that the members were being threatened with a pistol, occurred while Solicitor General Simon was addressing the commons today. The chamber was thrown into the greatest confusion and two "male suffragettes" responsible for the outbreak were arrested.

The men were identified as H. G. Bennett and Ivan Shaw. The arrest was made by the sergeant at arms who detained them until the house rose at 5 o'clock. No charge was placed against the men.

The two men were seated in the gallery when one suddenly jumped to his feet and shouting "justice for women," fired what the spectators and members of the floor believed was a real pistol. The other man hurled suffragette literature down upon the seats of the members, most of it heaping upon the seats of labor adherents.

This was followed by a shower of mouse traps and on top of each trap was a figure representing a cat. This phase of the demonstration was obviously a protest against the enforcement of the "cat and mouse" act.

There was the wildest excitement in the chamber when a sharp report was heard from the shining object in the hand of the first man to leap to his feet.

Officials and spectators nearby pounced upon the man. He was speedily overpowered and the supposed weapon taken from him. When it was inspected by the speaker and members of the house it was found that the "weapon" was merely a child's toy pistol.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Attempting to break through the lines while the king was passing, smashing store windows, and creating general disturbances, suffragettes staged another demonstration here today.

SENATE CUTS DOWN HOUSE TARIFF BILL

To make up for the reduction in national revenues due to the lower tariff rates, the bill provides a system of income taxes which are established to raise $70,000,000 a year and additional internal revenue taxes upon brandies used in fortifying sweet wines and upon trading in cotton futures. The result, the latter whether it will produce a large revenue or will merely put an end to cotton exchange speculation—is declared by Chairman Simmons to be highly uncertain.

The income tax will be collected from all American citizens, whether living at home or abroad, upon their net income above $3,000 in case of single persons or persons having no one dependent upon them for support and on all such incomes above $4,000 in cases where a wife or husband is living with another dependent upon the taxpayer. A further exemption of $500 is given for each child dependent upon such married taxpayer. The house bill made a general exemption of $4,000 income.

From $3,000 to $20,000 taxable income, the rate is one per cent per year. For the next $30,000 the rate is two per cent; for the next $50,000 it is three per cent, and for all above this point the rate is four per cent. The amount due from each citizen is to be reported and collected through the internal revenue collector for each revenue district.

START TOUR IN RAIN

MINNEAPOLIS, July 11.—Twenty-five automobiles started today in a downpour of rain from Minneapolis for National Park, Mont., on the annual tour for the Glidden trophy. The first car was nearly one hour late in starting on the 1,300 mile journey. The roads were muddy and the tourists took luncheon and thermos bottles in anticipation of not reaching St. Cloud, the noon terminal in time for dinner. Louis W. Hill drove car No. 1.

EXPECT INTERVENTION

VIENNA, July 11.—Russian intervention, with immediate orders for a cessation of hostilities in the conflict between the Balkan states, was confidently expected here this afternoon. It was admitted that a tentative armistice has already been arranged between the commanders along the line of the Greek and Servian advance.

LYNCHED WRONG MAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 11.—That "Kid" Tempers, a negro lynched early Thursday by a mob at Blountstown, was the wrong man, developed today. The mob leaders were in a hurry and entered the wrong cell when the jail was stormed in the absence of the sheriff.

Now it has become a regular thing to don bathing suits and have a bath on a street corner, while scores of strangers look on in astonishment.

CAUCUS MUST SETTLE WILSON IN NEAR AUTO ACCIDENT

PARTY DICTUM IS ONLY WAY TO RECONCILE FORCES OF DEMOCRATS ON CURRENCY REFORM

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Caucus rule upon currency reform legislation in the house is the only solution of the currency tangle in the house banking committee, members admitted today. Wide differences of opinion between several factions of democratic committee members regarding the administration currency bill, it is believed, will force a democratic caucus dictum upon the legislation.

MARSE HENRY IN PRAISE OF WILSON

NEW YORK, July 11.—Colonel Henry Watterson, here on a visit today, was asked about his personal relations with President Wilson. "My personal relations with him? I have none," said the colonel. "Our break was complete and final. Our friendship is a closed chapter. But we have to admit that he has beaten those democratic politicians down in Washington to a pulp. A man of great ability and intrepidity, he has thus far handled his end of the business of government with obvious success."

TO BREAK UP HOLDINGS

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Breaking up of irrigated land holdings into small tracts was the special condition imposed by the secretary of the interior today for immediate progress on the West Matilla irrigation project in Oregon. After a conference with Senators Chamberlain and Lane he issued orders to that effect involving lands of the Oregon Land & Water company. The recent contract between the government and the Northern Pacific Railway company is to be followed as a model in this instance.

WILSON NOMINATES

WASHINGTON, July 11.—President Wilson this afternoon nominated: To be ambassador to Germany, James W. Gerard of New York. To be minister to Spain, Joseph E. Willard of Virginia. To be deputy commissioner of pensions, Edward C. Tieman of Missouri. To be rear admiral, Captain Clifford J. Boush.

Belle B. Gurney of Chicago Says Free Love May Come in Fifteen Generations

DENVER, Col., July 11.—That free love may come possibly within fifteen generations is the prediction of Belle B. Gurney of Chicago, one of the prominent delegates to the convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy in an interview here. Discussing the subject she said: "I am not in favor of free love. I think it would blast the race and set progress back many centuries if it should ever come. But I confess the tendency is that way. Only by intelligent education can we avert this disaster. The majority of homes, I believe, are chaste. I think that most people love their homes. But the speed of the age is hurrying us into another epoch. The demand for something new, for something exciting, for something more daring than indecency in clothes is propelling us towards that day when as a fad, the dread economic proposition of free love will have to be met.

"It should be crushed now. It should be nipped in the bud. The minds of the people should be directed towards the home and the race should learn to live more within itself. Too much attention is paid to fashion, society and pleasure nowadays. Everything is external."

DR. L. H. MUNGER DIES IN WINONA

WINONA, Minn., July 11.—Dr. L. H. Munger, 56 years old, one of the leading physicians and surgeons in this section of Minnesota, died last night at his home in this city, after an illness of several weeks. He was a member of the Minnesota State Medical association.

BRYAN SEES CHINDA

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Fore-shadowing early delivery of the formal reply by this government to Japan's latest note in the California anti-alien land controversy of Secretary of State Bryan yesterday conferred with Ambassador Chinda. He referred to him the rough draft of the note. Bryan expects to deliver the note formally next week.

A. C. Trowbridge of Humor.

Help us, O Lord, to a kindly sense of humor. Today's rugged edges may furnish a smile for tomorrow. Yesterday's crosses are the refreshing memories of today. It may be that the bitter trials of now may yonder help to make the halls of heaven ring with the glad laugh of the saints in glory—by and by. Make us then to see the sunny side of clouds that rise up from the sea and form across the sky. And teach us the laugh that makes alive and leaves no sting or stain.—Mother's Magazine.

RUN DOWN WOLF IN AN AUTOMOBILE

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 11.—To run down a pair of wolves in a 1913 model seven passenger car on the North Iowa pike, the main traveled road through northeastern Iowa and the proposed river to river automobile highway, was the novel experience of H. Reeves of McGregor, Mr. party consisting of Mrs. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Daubenberger, Miss Betsy Larrabee and Miss Frances Perkins. As the car was moving along at a good pace near the village of Giard about nine o'clock in the evening, two gray wolves were suddenly shown by the headlight standing side by side in the middle of the road. Evidently dazed by the glare of the electric searchlight they did not move as the automobile bore down on them and the body of the big Pierce-Arrow passed directly over both. Mr. Reeves backed as quickly as possible but the wolves had disappeared. As the wheels did not touch them it is probable they escaped uninjured. One of the wolves was larger than the other and it is believed they were male and female. Though a wolf is occasionally killed in the woods in this vicinity in winter, it has been many years since one has been seen in the open.

The great trouble with our good resolutions is that so many of them are laid on the table. Among the other pleasant surprises is the wonder that there aren't more boy bandits.

VETERAN DIES AT M'GREGOR

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 11.—Wm. Kranert, a civil war veteran and one of the oldest residents of McGregor, was buried in Oakland cemetery yesterday under the auspices of the local post of the G. A. R. Mr. Kranert was a native of Germany, coming to New York in 1850. At the beginning of the war he enlisted in the Forty-first New York. He served in that regiment three years, then re-enlisted in the regular army, Second U. S. Infantry, and served a year and a half longer. He was captured and imprisoned in Libby prison for several months. After the war he moved his family to McGregor, where he has lived continuously since. He was 83 years of age at the time of his death. Five children survive him. They are Mrs. Louisa Siegel and H. Kranert of Dubuque; Henry Kranert of Fulton, Ill., and Mrs. H. Eichendorf and August Kranert of McGregor.

From the Point of View.

"BLACK BART" OUT CRIMINALITY GONE

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 11.—After having spent twenty-four years of a life term behind the bars of the Northern Michigan penitentiary, Edmund Holzway—called "Black Bart" from the resemblance between his operations and those of a notorious western desperado—has been released from prison. Some months ago Holzway underwent an operation for the removal of a bone splinter pressing on the brain and as a result is said to have recovered from his criminal tendencies.

For four months in 1889 Holzway terrorized middle and northern Wisconsin by a series of bold robberies. His first appearance in the limelight was when he held up a stagecoach near Shawano. A second stage robbery followed in a few days. Then a train on the Wisconsin Central railway was robbed near Cadotte. Next he appeared at Ellis Junction, where a passenger train was held up. Late that summer a stage was held up near Gogebic lake, in northern Michigan. A Minneapolis banker was shot dead and an Oshkosh, Wis., man who was driving the stage and a third man were shot. The passengers were robbed. The highwayman, who escaped, was recognized as Holzway.

Things of Famous Smokers.

Inevitable smokers do funny things. Carlyle smoked up the chimney with a degree of thoughtfulness for the feelings of others not universal in his conduct. The famous Bishop Burnet, who, like many another author, found composition facilitated by puffings of the seductive weed, disliked the interruption of removing his pipe constantly while he was writing. In order to combine the two operations with due comfort to himself he bored a hole through the broad brim of his hat and, putting his long pipe through it, puffed and wrote and wrote and puffed with the most philosophical calm.—Family Doctor.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots, How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from O. T. Erhart and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

SISTER OF MRS. ASTOR TO WED IN THE FALL

Society at Bar Harbor, Me., is all in a buzz over the announcement of the engagement of Miss Katherine Force, sister of Mrs. Madeline Astor, the young widow of John Jacob Astor, to wed Henri Harnickell, a New York broker. Miss Force has been at Bar Harbor during the summer with her sister, who takes little part in social affairs. He has known the young woman for a long time. They will likely be married in September.

A Walking Fern.

This is the popular name given to a fern by reason of its peculiar habit of growth. Its fronds are heart shaped, bright green in color, six to twelve inches long and arch over, and the fine slender points, coming in contact with the soil, take root. New growth again proceeds from the latter, which in turn roots also, so that the plant is continually moving forward, suggesting the idea of walking. This peculiar fern is quite hardy and grows well in any good soil and in a shady position.

The Canny Garageur.

"What!" cried Brimleigh in consternation. "No gasoline?" "Nary a drop," said the garage keeper. "But what the dickens am I going to do?" said Brimleigh. "Mine's all out." "Waal," said the garage keeper, "they's two things ye kin do. I got a hotel here where ye kin put up for the night at $7.50 a piece or I got a team the'll pull ye up to Sam Hoskins' garrdige on the same terms. Sam's the only feller round here 'at keeps gas'lene."—Harper's Weekly.

IOWA STUDENTS MAKE SURVEY

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 11.—Prof. A. C. Trowbridge of the Geology department of the Iowa State university and a party of S. U. I. students are making a geological survey of a strip of territory five to eight miles along the Mississippi from Lansing to Dubuque. For the past week they have been camped on the Heights at McGregor. Before coming here they had spent ten days at Lansing and several days near Waukon Junction. From here they go to the mouth of the Turkey and after a few days on to Dubuque, where they will pitch camp for a couple of weeks at Park Life farm.

Their work consists of a study and mapping of the rock formations and a collection of specimens for the State Geological survey to be used in Iowa high schools. At Waukon they made an especial study of the iron mines and at McGregor of the limestone quarries. Of the famous cliffs of colored sand a mile south of McGregor known as Pictured Rocks, Prof. Trowbridge said, "Undoubtedly it is the most picturesque spot in the state of Iowa."

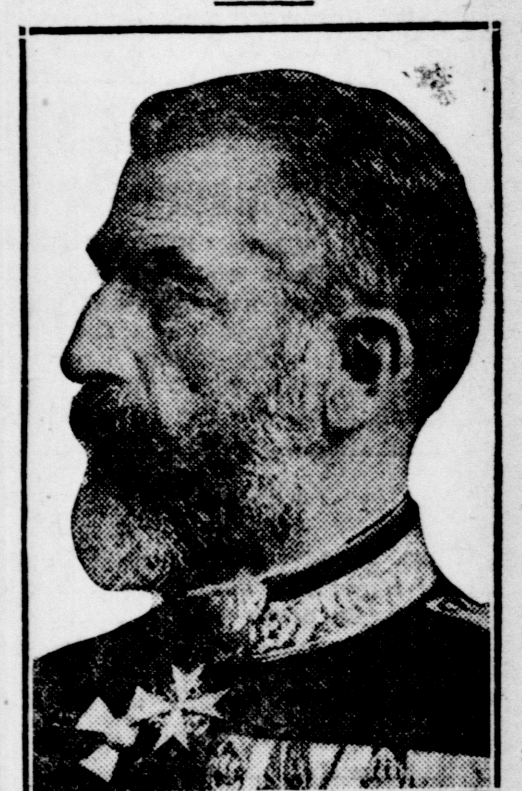

The survey work of the party for as much of the territory as they can cover will be the most complete ever made. Though the government has most accurately mapped topographically the territory along the Mississippi in northeastern Iowa, no geological survey has ever been made other than a state survey about fifteen years ago.

The young men students with Prof. Trowbridge are fitting themselves for government positions in the U. S. geological survey. They are A. J. Williams, Albany, Wis.; Geo. Bouyoucas, East Lansing, Mich.; W. W. Patrick, Iowa City, Iowa; M. W. Isles, Davenport; O. Quist, Essex, Iowa; I. Stubbart, Sonoma, Iowa; B. M. Hill, Hamburg, Iowa, and G. W. Buckley, Shelby, Iowa.

KING WAS TOLD TO FIGHT OR ABDICATE

King Charles of Roumania

"Fight or get off the throne!"

This was the order a mere prime minister gave his king the other day. Prime Minister Titus Majoresco of Roumania was talking to King Charles, whose supine attitude in the new situation has shamed his subjects. The king at once signed the order for calling out the army and Roumania placed herself in an attitude of defense.

The prime minister told the king several other things, among them that when he ascended the throne of Roumania forty-seven years ago he was a pauper, but that he had managed to make several million dollars. At the time of the visit Majoresco was backed up by a mob just outside the palace, a mob which would have broken inside had it been given a little encouragement.

JUDGE REFUSES CASE

WON'T HEAR HENNING CONSPIRACY CASE BECAUSE HE IS FRIEND OF DEFENSE ATTORNEY

CHICAGO, July 10.—Judge Thos. Windes in criminal court today refused to preside in the trial of three persons charged with conspiracy in the framing of a bogus $25,000 alienation suit by John C. Henning against Clarence S. Funk, former general manager of the International Harvester company.

The case was taken from the calendar.

MURDER CASE HAS HASTY CONCLUSION

RICHMOND, Va., July 11.—The final chapter in the most expeditious criminal prosecution in the history of the Old Dominion was enacted here today when Benjamin Bailey, colored, who criminally assaulted six year old Mary H. Collins of Great Falls, paid the penalty in the electric chair.

Bailey was arrested on May 29 and indicted at a special session of the grand jury. Less than two hours after he appeared in court on the following day, a jury had been drawn, the cases of both the state and the defense presented, the verdict of guilty had been returned and he was sentenced to death in the chair.

ROADS CONGRESS TO BE AT DETROIT

After keen competition among a number of cities, including St. Louis, Denver, Minneapolis, Buffalo, and Detroit, the joint committee having the matter in charge decided to hold the American Road congress at Detroit during the week of September 29.

This will mean the greatest road assemblage ever held in the United States as the congress comprises the American Highway association, with upwards of 2,000 regular members and more than 15,000 associate members; the American Automobile association, with over 70,000 members; the Michigan State Good Roads association, which is strongly organized in every part of the state, and in addition to this it is quite probable that the Ontario Good Roads association will join with the others thus making the congress an international affair.

WARNS AGAINST FRIEDMANN CURE

Wisconsin Board of Health Says Not to Desert Proved Methods for Doubtful Remedy

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—(Special.)—The Wisconsin state board of health in a bulletin advises the public against attempting to take the Friedmann so-called "cure" for tuberculosis, and urges waiting for a final report by the United States public health service upon the merits and dangers incident to the administration of the treatment.

"We regret that the methods of exploiting this 'cure' and the results thus far obtained do not give us any encouragement in the reliability or efficiency of this remedy," says the board, "and therefore would strongly advise individuals who are suffering from tuberculosis to continue in the well known method of treatment, namely, rest, fresh air and plenty of good food until the government officials have made a final report of the investigations now being made."

The bulletin declares that no scientific investigation has been made by unprejudiced public health officials or scientific men which assures that there is any merit to the claim made by Dr. Friedmann.

BABY BOY DYING OF MERCURY POISON

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 11.—In a game battle against death, a 2 year old boy, Kenneth Getschell, who ate a quantity of bichloride of mercury tablets at his home nine days ago, slowly is losing his grip on life.

Physicians who have watched over him at the city hospital have been surprised at his remarkable vitality.

ROYALTY SEES SHIPS

PEACEFUL ARMADA REVIEWED BY GEORGE AND MARY TWICE LARGER THAN FAMOUS SPANISH FLEET

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—The striking spectacle of a peaceful armada—twice as large in number as the Spanish Armada of long ago—representing the mercantile marine of Great Britain, and stretching five miles along the Mersey estuary, was presented to King George and Queen Mary who arrived here today to be the chief figures in the ceremonies attending the opening of the gigantic new Gladstone dock. The post of honor was given to the great ship Mauretania, and after boarding the yacht Galatea to review the fleet the king and queen inspected the Cunarder. Twenty-six big ocean going ships were in line, including the White Star Ceramic and the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland, and the scores of miscellaneous craft. The warships Liverpool and Lancaster, selected in honor of the Lancashire visit, provided the naval escort for the mercantile fleet. The arrangements were made by the earl of Derby, with whom the king and queen are staying. Stringent precautions were taken by the police to guard against any possible suffragette interruptions or demonstrations at the dock and the route of the royal procession ashore and aloft being thoroughly patrolled. Several yachts which had taken their places in line without notifying the authorities were pounced upon by the river and harbor police and the owners had to give strict account of themselves and their passengers.

PACKERS SHIFT BLAME

CHICAGO, July 11.—It was claimed at the Stock Yards that the packers were not to blame for the advance in prices to housewives. Calves liver was raised to 25 cents a pound and beef cuts from 28 to 30. Packers figures show housewife has cause for censuring the butcher, as numbers of ribs are steady with last week at 16½ cents while all other cuts were lowered 1-2 to 1 cent by the packers.

MASCULINE STYLE GOES TO EXTREME

Skin-tight Coats and Trousers with Loud Shirts Pre-vail

ARE MONOGRAMMED CUBISTICALLY

Dainty Letter-splashes in Futurist Colors Decorate the Shirt Sleeves

(By Margaret Mason, written for the United Press.)

A slave of fashion's whims is man. Since that eventful day When Adam donned his coat of tan It was a cutaway. The first style since the world began It was all cutaway.

NEW YORK, July 11.—When the fashion bee begins buzzing around in bowler the lid is soon off. In other words though mere man may scoff and deride the fashionable foibles of the weaker sex he simply knows no limit when a question of his own sartorial smartness is concerned.

Now that lovely woman has discarded her waist line it is only meet that the opposite sex should pull it in. Woman has broadened in more senses than one while man has narrowed up his waist line to his viewpoint. Shoulders, too, have undergone a renovating and narrowing process and all pads have been cast off with a reckless abandon. Indeed the shoulders of the many have been relieved of a Herculean burden and Percy's new spring Norfolk is no longer a padded cell.

Clothes Make the Man

The lounge suit of the moment is of dark blue serge when the coat is double breasted, of worsted or homespun for the single breasted cut. The latter mixed effects are good in shades of grey or brown and even a greenish mixture is verdant with hope of popularity. The ultra Norfolk jacket is a favorite in the black and white check of the perennial shepherd plaid whose vogue seems never checked. With all the coats curved in as to waist, as natural as to shoulders, with sleeves tight and trousers ditto the truth of the saying that clothes make the man is all too plainly revealed.

To get at the top of things the straw hat that shows which way the fashionable wind blows is a rough sennit with a medium brim, rather high crown and wide plain band. Although this hat stands at the head, Mackinaw, Swiss and other novelty straws cover a multitude of pates.

Shirts Are Loud

The song of the shirt this summer is a trifle loud. Coral pink, azure and mauve are favorite all silk shirts whose bosoms are a mass of tiny pleats or pin tucks. They all show the soft turn back French cuffs. With cuffs and bosoms of filmy white linen these giddy hued silk shirts are very smart for evening wear with the informal dinner jacket. The well groomed man of conservative proclivities, however, hardly feels in the pink of condition in a pink silk shirt even if it does blush unseen beneath his coat.

Perhaps the most exclusive shirts are made of the striped cheviot but these have the disadvantage of being a bit too close woven and heavy for comfortable hot weather wear. Cubist monograms in Futurist colorings stamp negligee shirt sleeves with masculine approval and handkerchiefs monogrammed to match are the last word for the nose that knows and is up to snuff. A novelty shirt whose surplus tail is thrifflily converted into underdrawers is simply panting to attain popularity with the summer man and comes in madras, linen and mixtures of silk and cotton.

Turn over collars with exaggerated long points have taken masculinity by the throat. It is merely a matter of taste, however, whether the corners be pointed or rounded but all the fold collars are showing wider openings in preference to the closely meeting fronts of last season.

Bulgarian Ties Lose

Bulgarian and Futurist scarfs fought hard for first place upon manly bosoms this season but met only with defeat. Beau Brummels of 1913 refused to tie up with them. Rather wide bow ties and narrow four-in-hands in single tones or stripes and small designs hold equal places in the summer cravat case. It is a tie which is the favorite.

For formal afternoon wear the evening coat is paradoxically correct. It takes precedence over the erstwhile frock coat and is worn with gray striped trousers, a fancy waistcoat and a white or pale tinted shirt. Either a wing or fold collar is permissible and you may take your choice of an Ascot, four-in-hand or bow tie to turn you into a fine figure of a fellow.

In summer the dinner jacket is good for any occasion of the least formality. It is divergent in form to suit the most fickle fancy and it is purely a matter of personal taste whether it be single or double breasted with sleeves cuffed or plain, slit or diagonal pockets flapped or unflapped. Only one thing is decreed for good taste—the waist coat and tie must be black. Conservatism is the best tip for the well dressed man. He is sartorially sage who spurns all ultra, extreme and novel effects. Remember—

A shirt should be seen and not heard. Look not upon the tie when it is red. A watch in the pocket is worth two on the wrist.

KEEPING POULTRY FREE FROM LICE.

Formulae for the Preparations Given Are By Mr. R. C. Lawry of Cornell University.

One of the most difficult and trying problems which the poultry keeper has to meet is that of keeping his poultry houses and stock reasonably free from lice, mites and other external parasites. There are many proprietary preparations on the market designed to accomplish this end in one way or another. Most of these preparations are, in proportion to their efficiency, very expensive. Individuals and companies and the agricultural stations who have used the following, state that vermin on the poultry or in the houses no longer cause them any appreciable annoyance.

In keeping a poultry plant free from lice there are two points of attack: One, the birds themselves; the other, the houses, nest boxes, roosting boards, etc. For the birds themselves, experience has shown that the best way to get rid of the lice is by the use of a dusting powder to be worked into the feathers. In using any kind of lice powder on poultry, whether the one described in this article or some other, it should always be remembered that a single application of powder is not sufficient. When there are lice present on a bird there are always unhatched eggs of lice ("nits") present too. The proper procedure is to follow up a first application of powder with a second at an interval of 4 days to a week. If the birds are badly infested at the beginning it may be necessary to make a third application. To clean the cracks and crevices of the woodwork of houses and nests of lice and vermin, a liquid spray or paint is probably the most desirable form of application.

The lice powder, which costs only a few cents a pound, is made in the following way:

1 part of crude carbolic acid.
Mix these together and add gradually, with stirring, enough plaster of paris to take up all the moisture. The liquid and the dry plaster should be thoroughly mixed and stirred so that the liquid will be uniformly distributed through the mass of plaster. When enough plaster has been added the resulting mixture should be a dry, pinkish brown powder having a fairly strong carbolic odor and a rather less pronounced gasoline odor.

Do not use more plaster in mixing than is necessary to blot up the liquid. This powder is to be worked into the feathers of the birds affected with vermin. The bulk of the application should be in the fluff around the vent and on the ventral side of the body and in the fluff under the wings. Its efficiency, which is greater than that of any other lice powder known to the writer, can be very easily demonstrated by anyone to his own satisfaction. Take a bird that is covered with lice and apply the powder in the manner just described. After a lapse of about a minute, shake the bird, loosening its feathers with the fingers at the same time, over a clean piece of paper. Dead and dying lice will drop on the paper in great numbers. Anyone who will try this experiment will have no further doubt of the wonderful efficiency and value of this powder.

For a spray or paint to be applied to roosting boards, nest boxes or walls and floor of the hen houses, the following preparation is used: 3 parts of kerosene and 1 part crude carbolic acid. This is stirred up when used and may be applied with any of the hand spray pumps or with a brush.

In both of these formulae it is highly important that crude carbolic acid be used instead of the purified product. Be sure and insist to the druggist on getting crude carbolic acid. It is a dark brown, dirty looking liquid, and its value depends on the fact that it contains tar oil and tar bases in addition to the pure phenol (carbolic acid).

When the pullets are ready to go into the laying houses they should be free from lice. The laying houses should be given a thorough cleaning. They should be first scraped, scoured and washed out with water thrown on the walls and floor with as much pressure as possible from a hose. They are then given two thorough sprayings, with an interval of several days intervening, with a solution of cresol. Then roosting boards, nests, floors and walls to a height of about 5 feet are thoroughly sprayed with the lice paint (kerosene oil and crude carbolic acid described above). Finally, any yearling, or older birds, whether male or female, which are to be kept over for the next year's work, are given two or three successive dustings, at intervals of several days to a week between each application, with the lice powder described above, before they are put into the cleaned houses.

As a result of these methods the poultry plant may be, at all times of the year, practically free from lice.

SHEEP DIP TOO STRONG.

A successful sheep grower writes: "I have found that the great trouble with most sheep dips is, they are made too strong and cause irritation of the flesh. For each 10 sheep I use only one-fourth pound of plug tobacco. This I boil in about 30 gallons of water and dip the sheep therein as soon as cool. I make an application once a week 'till the trouble is overcome."

Don't have any loose wire laying around the farm anywhere, especially where colts or horses run. It only takes two seconds to knock a hundred dollars off the value of the horse.

Rape sowed in the corn field when the crop is laid by produces an excellent forage for sheep.

Many things enter into the makeup of a thoroughbred horse—the feet and legs must be right, the legs straight and well set under the body. The head should be well poised and the expression of the face good. The shoulders, ribs and thighs symmetrical, and the whole animal covered with good coat of hair.

A team of two or three horses is not a satisfactory one to manage unless each horse is well suited to the place he occupies in it and prompt to do his part when called upon, and there is no better way to teach a horse to act independently of the other horses than to call him by name and give him to understand what you want him to do.

Why do the cut worms confine their attention to vegetables and pass up the "pussy" and red root?

CABBAGE CROP IMPORTANT.

The cabbage is a native of western and southern Europe and has been used for human food from time immemorial. All of the types of cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, collard and kale have sprung from the same original source. The wild type is still growing on the chalk cliffs of the English channel. On the cliffs of south-eastern England is now found a plant similar to the Georgia collards.

The cabbage crop is a very important one, large quantities being grown by farmers and truck gardeners for the markets of all the large cities, where it is used largely for immediate consumption. There is always a good demand in the large cities in late summer and early fall for cabbage. It is very difficult to get data of the acreage, yield and average value of the crop grown by those who care to these demands. The prices vary greatly according to the season and location. The price per ton, as indicated by fifteen correspondents catering to the trade of different cities, varies from $5 to $15. During the past few years, considerable stimulus has been given the growing of cabbage, through the sauerkraut factories, many of which contract at fair prices for the entire output of cabbage.

Many growers maintain that a cabbage crop of nine tons per acre is a better paying crop than corn, wheat or oats under fair yields.

In some sections near the large markets, many growers have been driven out of business, so far as cabbage culture is concerned, through the ravages of certain fungus diseases affecting this plant. Much hope is entertained of the possibility of securing disease-resistant strains.

This is a work that requires several years for positive results. Sometimes it is desirable even after securing resistant plants to cross-breed these with marketable strains, as it is often the case that resistant strains or va-

The building of the Panama canal is making an increased demand for mules. In some parts of the country the price for good mules has reached $500 a pair. It is probable that the demand will not grow any less.

More than three-fourths of an egg is composed of water, so you can see how necessary it is that the fowls should be kept supplied with an abundance of water. It should be pure, and given to them in some way that they cannot get it foul.

DESTRUCTIVE GRAPE PEST.

Grapes Affected by the Leaf-Hopper Show a Decrease in Sugar and an Increase in Acid—Two Important Factors in Determining the Quality of the Product.

BY F. HARTZELL.

The grape leaf-hopper belongs to the group of insects that obtain their food by sucking the juices of plants. They are seldom found on the upper surfaces of the leaves but they usually seek the under sides and there do practically all their feeding.

While immature the insects are called nymphs. The adults are more conspicuous than the nymphs and are especially noticeable at the time the grapes are being harvested. They are then very annoying because they get into the mouths, ears and noses of the pickers. At this time they fly about, especially on warm and calm days during the latter part of the season, and drift to other vines or to grass fields, brush land and thickets. In fact, they seek any place that will shelter them during the winter.

The leaf-hopper survives the winter in greatest numbers in dry localities and is absent from low-lying lands, such as clay and some of the loam soils. On the higher soils there is no winter flooding and the rains soon drain away, thus offering the most however, not a matter of chance. Situations in which dead weeds or grasses abound or where leaves from trees collect, provide the very best conditions for the wintering of the leaf-hoppers. The proximity of portions of the vineyard to grass fields, grassy headlands, wooded banks of a stream, blackberries and raspberries, determine the relative amount of leaf-hopper injury to the vines.

While the nymphs and adults of the summer brood inflict much injury, owing to numbers, considerable damage is done by the hibernating adults in the spring since they attack the young foliage, causing yellowing of the leaves. This damage to the young grape foliage by the adults is needless, however, and can largely be prevented by burning over the winter quarters desirable winter quarters. Here the leaf-hopper abounds.

That certain vineyards are more susceptible to attacks by the leaf-hopper is a common observation. The degree of infestation of vineyards is,

TO INSURE BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.

The soil should be spaded up to the depth of eight or ten inches, early. Nothing more need be done to it. Let it lie as it comes from the spade until, under the action of air, showers, and sunshine, the clods of earth are ready to crumble under the application of the hoe or rake. When you are ready to plant, the ground should be thoroughly pulverized by raking it over and over until it is fine and mellow as possible to make it. This is done to the best advantage with a sharp-toothed iron rake. The hoe can be used on whatever clods do not readily yield to the rake.

Whatever manure is used should be applied now, and worked into the soil. Barnyard manure is best of all, so far as fertilizing elements are concerned, but it is open to the objection of containing so many weed seeds that the work of weeding will be greatly increased by its use. An excellent substitute is fine bone meal. In the proportion of a half pound to each yard square of soil. If the soil is poor, a larger quantity can be used. More can be applied at any time during the season if the plants do not seem to be making a satisfactory growth. The first application should be thoroughly mixed with the soil, but later application can be scattered over the surface and scratched into the soil with a weeding hook.

Ten or 12 hens well cared for will furnish more eggs than double the number of the same breed uncared for.

Chemical analyses of grapes taken from sprayed and unsprayed vines show that the fruit from vines protected from the leaf-hopper is superior to fruit from vines subjected to the attacks of this pest. Analyses of grapes from sprayed vines gave a gain of from 8 to 68 per cent in sugar over those from untreated vines, while the unsprayed grapes had from 0 to 20.6 per cent more acid than the sprayed grapes. The color of the grapes from sprayed vines was darker and richer. This shows that spraying, properly done, will minimize the injury by the leaf-hopper. Experiments in New York during 1912 showed that "Black Leaf 40" (40 per cent nicotine), one part to 1600 parts of water or Bordeaux mixture, is an efficient spray for the leaf-hopper. The spraying must be done at the time when the maximum number of nymphs are present, and this is usually sometime during the month of July. One must judge the time by watching the development of the insects. Sufficient spray mixture must be used to drench the insects and the under sides of the leaves must be thoroughly hit by the spray. Spraying at low pressure is a waste of time and material.

THE BLACK PEACH LOUSE.

By E. F. SMITH.

This insect derives its name from its intense black color and smooth, shining appearance. A great deal of the injury done by this insect is not recognized by the grower, who may charge it to yellows, to applications made during the winter for other purposes, or to climatic causes. Where the insects are numerous on the roots the tree simply looks sick. The foliage is thin, imperfectly developed and light in color. The louse is especially destructive to nursery trees and to orchards just planted or in the second year.

Nursery trees, especially on light land, are often infested. If such trees are set out without treatment, the insects may multiply without causing much or any perceptible injury the first season, confining themselves to the trunk and larger roots close to it. At the beginning of the second season the insects spread outward to the smaller rootlets, increase in number so as to form a drain on the vitality of the tree and then the check to growth becomes apparent. If the tree sustains itself during the second summer it will probably continue to live and may outgrow injury, especially if well fed. But a tree so checked and weakened in early life rarely does

NOTES OF THE SHEEPFOLD.

Sheep must play an important part in the restoration of fertility to the worn-out grain raising areas of the country.

A common error of the inexperienced feeder is failure to provide good shelter. Lambs cannot make good gains with wet feet nor soggy fleeces. One man can feed 400 lambs to a finish between fall and spring more easily than he can feed milk and clean up after ten dairy cows.

Avoid crowding the lambs in the feeding quarters. They need a lot of room on account of their natural habit of crowding.

The ram should be in perfect condition, but not fat at mating.

MANAGEMENT OF THE DAIRY HERD.

Great as Have Been Our Successes, the Methods of Our Average Dairy Farmer Are Yet Crude and Imperfect.

It has become an axiom, with some dairy men, that the best results are obtainable only with the best breeds of animals. But success with such animals implies also the best management; and not every beginner is capable of the skillful handling necessary with high-bred cows. The higher we get in the scale of animal life the more delicate the animal mechanism becomes, and the greater the need of wisdom in the human agency which controls its movements. It is a long time before a baby can care for itself as well as can a bronco colt at one day old. A bronco colt can stand more simple hardship and abuse than can a colt from a standard-bred trotting mare or a high-class draft animal; but the bronco will never have the great speed, at the trot, of the standard-bred, nor will it grow large enough to have the power of the drafter. The scrubby native cow can stand more hardship and abuse than a highly-developed dairy cow capable of doing great work, and the latter loses her superior commercial value in unfavorable surroundings and under unfavorable treatment.

It is found, therefore, that success in dairying depends as much on the kind of care and management bestowed on the herd, as upon the breed. Care and management are for this reason, given the first consideration here. These should include a much greater degree of attention to the comfort of the animals than is ordinarily bestowed. In fact, it can be demonstrated that the nearer we come to applying the Golden Rule to the treatment of the dairy herd, and treating its members as we would like to be treated, the larger will be the satisfaction and rewards of dairying.

These are the touchstones of success. When the cow is comfortable and contented, she responds with a flow of milk far in excess of that which she gives when she has been uncomfortable and irritated. Everybody knows that in June weather cows give a larger amount of milk than in cold and wintry weather. If we aim to produce, all the rest of the year, in stall and barn, conditions as nearly as possible like those of June—in warmth, light, freedom from flies, etc., with succulent food in the form of silage and roots to replace the June grasses—who shall say that Bossy will not make ample returns in the milk-pail?

In nothing have most farmers so stained against their herds, probably, as in the inadequate shelter provided them against winter's cold and the hot sun of summer. Warm, well-lighted and ventilated stables are essential to a high rate of production. A sanitary barn should have from four to six square feet of window-space for each cow kept. Where cows are kept in the stalls much of the time, it is not unreasonable to say that the barn should be light enough for one to read in. Good ventilation is essential; but it should be so arranged that the cow shall not be exposed to a draught. "While warmth without ventilation is conducive to disease, ventilation without heat is a consumer of feed." The range of temperature in the barn should be kept between 40 and 65 degrees F. In summer, the shades should be pulled down, lest the well-lighted barn become too warm. They will also keep out the flies. It will have gunny-bags hung in the doorway; so that, as the cow forces her way through, the flies will be brushed off her back.

Nowhere on the farm is cleanliness more desirable than in the dairy barn. Stalls and calf-pens should be kept free from filth and moisture. Plenty of bedding should be used at all times, and the pens cleaned out frequently. If the calf-pen is not a large one, it should be cleaned out every day. In the gutters, it is well to use common slacked lime, or wood ashes, as an absorbent.

Cows should not be kept in "an ice house, a hog pen or a dungeon." A dark, damp and dirty place is very favorable to the growth of bacteria, which may attack the health of the animals. Plenty of sunlight keeps the place dry and kills bacteria.

When kept in the barn, cows should be brushed daily, not only to keep the dirt and hair from falling into the milk-pail, but to keep the pores of the skin open. This makes the cow more comfortable, and it cannot be too often repeated that anything done to add to the comfort of the cow adds to her productiveness.

NOTES OF THE HOG LOT.

Every hog grower should make a great effort to have a few acres of alfalfa, because it furnishes unusually valuable grazing for hogs and can be pastured off several times during the season.

There is nothing more disgusting than to have a lot of unruly hogs running at large about the farm buildings. With modern woven wire fence it is easy to confine them within their proper limits.

There is nothing gained by mixing corn meal with chopped alfalfa except to insure larger consumption. The conformation of the broad sow is a controlling factor in her ability to produce good pigs.

The longer any herd or family of hogs is subjected to a ration of corn or confined in small pens and barren yards the lower will be their vitality and prolificacy.

Black peach louse as it appears on roots of young peach trees.

what it should, and is apt to be attacked by disease and insects like the bark beetles, which need some debilitated trees for their best development. All peach trees should be carefully fumigated by the nurseryman as a matter of precaution and, if properly done, this is entirely safe.

Where the trees have not been so treated they should be very carefully inspected before setting, and if any signs of plant-lice are noted, the roots should be washed so as to free them of most of the dirt and then dipped in a strong tobacco decoction. The dipping should be thorough and should be done just before setting. Instead of dipping in a decoction, the washed roots may be thoroughly dusted with finely ground tobacco when setting, and a handful of ground tobacco should be thrown around the trunk before filling the hole and firming.

If a young orchard is found to be infested after it has been set, remove the soil for a foot around the trunk so as to form a shallow basin, put in a pound of ground tobacco and cover. See that the trees are kept well cultivated and supplied with sufficient plant food to stimulate rapid and vigorous growth.

Getting a good orchard started is a step in the right direction, but that is not all. It is only a beginning. Fruit growing requires care and attention the same as any other business.

Although much is done every year to obtain early tomato plants, yet some of the best yields in the main crop are from vines from seed sown. They do not bear quite as early, but the fruit is good and the vines strong.

The critical period in the young turkey is generally at an end when six weeks old. Inbreeding, lice, dampness and improper food are the main causes for great mortality.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, July 11.—General rains in the northwest and nothing but favorable crop conditions caused a selling drive that sent wheat still lower today. After opening weak July lost 3-8c and September 3-4c in the morning session.

Crop conditions influenced selling in corn also. Rain was falling over some of the states that complained of drought and after a weak opening July lost 1-2c and September 7-8c.

Oats were weak at the start and moved downward in sympathy with the other grains. Noon found July 1-2c under yesterday's close and September 7-8c under the same figures.

Provisions were firm and higher on a slightly higher hog market. The entire grain list slumped badly under selling pressure in the afternoon, prices tumbling 1-4 to 1-2c and closing at bottom figures for the day.

Provisions were a trifle easier in the afternoon and closed at about the day's opening prices.

PITTSBURGH BANKERS WHOSE BUSINESS CONCERNS HAVE CLOSED

William S. Kuhn, James S. Kuhn.

James S. and William S. Kuhn, were in control of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh; the First National bank of McKeesport, and a bank at Amherst, Ohio, all of which have suspended payments. The First-

Second National bank of Pittsburgh, a recent consolidation of the First and Second National banks of the city, was closed by the controller of the currency, who did not believe that its condition warranted it in continuing business.

The storm here unroofed several houses and barns and uprooted a number of trees.

Men are so contrary that some of them prefer buttermilk because it tastes worse than beer.

When you see a woman getting off a street car it's hard to believe she is more graceful than a man.

Don't howl too loudly for justice. You might get it.

"I'll send my boy to a boarding school."

"What for?"

"Oh, he asks such questions. He wanted to know last night if a shoe-maker could breathe his last."

Watching The Scoreboard

The Athletics still hold the season's record for consecutive victories with fifteen games. Ward Miller contributed largely to the efforts of the Cubs, which stopped the Giants with fourteen straight. His three base knock in the sixth put over two runs, giving Chicago the necessary one run margin.

Doolin's shakeup of the Phillies did not bring any flattering results and Pittsburgh is now horning into the first division.

The Cardinals did not get much satisfaction out of their six hits off Perdue and nosed over just one run. Falkenberg was better than Eddie Plank and Houck and the Naps downed the Athletics. Ryan and Carisch led in the Cleveland attack with three hits each.

In breaking the Chicago hoodoo and winning a game in that town, the Yankees did an artistic job. They touched Russell for nine safe ones and Warhop held the White Sox to three hits in the six innings he officiated. McConnell, who relieved him, did not allow a man to reach first.

Nap Rucker was knocked out of the box and Cincinnati trounced the Dodgers again. Miner Brown's arm was as good as ever and his batting eye was good enough to enable him to ring up three hits.

Foster went eight innings against the Browns without allowing a hit. He was then touched for two. Speaker had a fair batting day with two doubles and a single. Wagner added two doubles.

COB RECOVERS

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—Ty Cobb, out of the Tiger lineup for over a week, is expected to resume his place in center field today. Cobb was spiked by Weaver in the recent Chicago series here and the wound became infected.

SPORTS

PLAYFIELD MEET IS ON TOMORROW

First Contest Between the Teams of Municipal Playgrounds Scheduled at Copeland

The first inter-playground athletic meet will be held Saturday, July 12, at the Copeland park track. There is every indication that the meet will be an unqualified success since the entry list is to the number of over one hundred and enthusiasm is high on east ground. The West avenue ground expects to carry away the honors in the midget division; the Hood street seniors are confident of winning first in their class and the honors are about evenly divided in the other two classes.

The meet will be run in two parts. The midgets and boys' classes will compete in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock and the juniors and seniors will start their meet at 7 o'clock.

An athlete will be weighed in athletic costume minus shoes. The scales will be set at the weight specified for each class and anyone raising the beam so that it touches above will be ineligible to compete. Athletes found to be too heavy for the class in which they enter will not be allowed to compete in any other class. The limit of events in which a man may enter is three.

The events for the various classes follow:

Midgets, 85 pounds and under—50 yard dash, running high jump, standing broad jump, 360 yard relay race, 4 potato race.

Boys, 115 pound class—70 yard dash, running high jump, running broad jump, 6 potato race, 440 yard race.

Juniors, 130 pound class—100 yard dash, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, 300 yard dash.

Seniors, unlimited weight class—100 yard dash, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, shot put.

Five points will be awarded for first, three points for second, two points for third and one point for fourth. Ribbons will be the award in each case.

NO CRIME TO SIT IN SALOON SUNDAY

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—(Special.)—It is no crime to sit around a saloon on Sunday provided nothing is sold. An opinion by Attorney General Owen to District Attorney James Kirwan of Calumet county makes this clear. Application had been made to Kirwan to arrest saloonkeepers who keep open their places of business on Sunday. No business was done save letting people sit in the saloon out of the sun. The attorney general holds an offense has not been committed and that the law contemplates forbidding traffic or business in places that are kept open on the first day of the week.

Numerous others questions involving the Sunday law are also asked and answered. The attorney general rules that unless the operation of a saloon is a work of necessity, the owners are open to prosecution, and the burden of proof would be upon the defendant to show it was a work of necessity. Saloonkeepers of Chilton made application for the arrest of the president of a saloon for running on Sunday.

The attorney general holds that keeping a saloon open for business on Sunday is not a work of necessity, nor is the sale of wearing apparel.

MERRILL MAN HEADS BOARD OF CONTROL

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—Gov. McGovern has appointed Ralph Smith of Merrill, president of the state board of control.

This appointment is made by authority of a law passed by the legislature. Heretofore the president of the board has been chosen by the members of the board. The new law also increases the salary of the president from $2,500 to $3,600 per year.

Beat White Sox on Chicago Field in Interesting Contest; Score 2 to 1

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago 3; New York 2

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Cubs broke the Giants' winning streak by taking yesterday's game, 3 to 2. The locals outbit the Cubs and had the benefit of four passes, but the classy fielding of the visitors stopped several batting rallies. Score:

Chicago . . . 010002000—3 9 0

New York . . . 000110000—2 11 2

Batteries: Smith and Bresnahan; Mathewson and Meyers, Wilson.

Pittsburgh 3; Philadelphia 2

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Pittsburgh won its third successive game from Philadelphia yesterday, 3 to 2.

McQuillen pitched his first game for the Pirates and while he was hit harder than Chalmers, he kept the hits scattered and the Phillies were only able to score in the third and ninth innings. Score: R H E

Pittsburgh . . . 201000000—3 4 0

Philadelphia . . . 001000001—2 10 2

Batteries: McQuillen and Simon; Chalmers and Howley, Killifer.

Cincinnati 1; Brooklyn 5

BROOKLYN, July 11.—The Brooklyn continued on their downward slide yesterday by losing to the tail-end Reds, 5 to 1, and are now tied with Pittsburgh for fourth place.

Rucker was decidedly off form and was taken out after he had given a pass and five hits had been made.

He was followed by Wagner who stood the bombardment for three innings. Hall lasted until the ninth.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 2; Chicago 1

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Yankees defeated the White Sox here yesterday, 2 to 1, in a lively interesting contest. The Chance men made their first tally in the second when Peckinpaugh singled and scored on Knight's duke double to second. The Sox tied it in their half on a hit batter, Warhop's error and a sacrifice fly. The winning tally was scored in the sixth on two hits and a sacrifice fly to right field. Score:

New York . . . 010001000—2 9 1

Chicago . . . 010000000—1 3 1

Batteries: Warhop, McConnell and Smith; Russell and Schalk.

Cleveland 4; Philadelphia 1

CLEVELAND, July 11.—The Naps evened up with the Athletics, 4 to 1, yesterday, taking the measure of Plank and Houck. The great southpaw gave up two runs in seven innings, giving way to Daley to bat in a pinch. Score: R H E

Philadelphia . . . 000000001—1 7 1

Cleveland . . . 110000020—4 9 1

Batteries: Plank, Houck and Lapp; Falkenberg and Carisch.

Detroit 4; Washington 2

DETROIT, July 11.—Hughes had a bad first inning yesterday, the Tigers taking three runs on as many hits. After that "Long Tom" settled down, allowing but two more hits. But the Nationals could do little with Hall and Detroit won 4 to 2. Score: R H E

EACH THUNDER CLAP SHE LOSES VOICE

MARINETTE, Wis., July 11.—Every time it thunders, Lucy Seppala, aged 12, of Dollar Bay, Mich., loses her voice.

The girl first lost her voice during a severe electrical storm six weeks ago.

It was restored four weeks later when she was playfully frightened by a friend.

At each electrical storm since that time the girl has lost her voice again, but it has been restored each time by a prearranged surprise or shock.

Many physicians of upper Michigan are watching the case.

NOTED BAPTIST TO SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Every one interested in world wide movements in the interest of the kingdom should not fail to hear that prince of public speakers, Dr. W. T. Stockhouse, at the Baptist church on Sunday morning and evening.

Dr. Stockhouse is secretary of the national mission bureau and will have a message of unusual interest for all.

The pastor of the church desires to extend a cordial invitation to the general public to hear these stirring messages.

TO GATHER OLD CUBS

NEW YORK, July 11.—The old Chicago Cub machine, famed for its pennant victories, will be pieced together for an exhibition game in Chicago in September. It was announced here today. The performance will be staged as a benefit for the widow of the late Jimmy Doyle. Manager Evers of the Cubs and Manager Tinker of the Reds, two of the important bits of the old mechanism, agreed to the benefit scheme today.
